Washington (CPA)—Telegraphic reports received from virtually all the Federal Land banks emphasize the present low cost of farm land as one of the encouraging features in the agricultural areas of the country for the new year. An increasing interest in farm ownership among urban residents is recorded.
The last year has not been a favorable time for agriculture, hence the review of the year given by the presidents of the land banks refers to the short crops due to the drought, the low commodity price level and other adverse factors. Payments, however, to land banks have been well maintained by the majority of the farm borrowers and demand for new loans are being met by the land banks. Applications for long term mortgage loans are increasing. The morale of the farmers is "generally good, with no such feeling of pessimism or depression as appears to be found in the cities," according to E. H. Thompson, president of the Federal Land bank which embraces New York and the New England states.
Reports Favorable
President Vaiden of the Federal Land bank of Baltimore, states that borrowers have been able to meet their amortization payments. "The year was a satisfactory one," he adds.
"We have an abiding faith in the honesty and integrity of our farmer borrowers and believed they will put forth every effort to meet their obligations to the bank."

Farmers in the district embraced by the Federal Land bank of Columbia, S. C., "have made progress in the diversification of crops and improved farming methods," according to President Frank H. Daniel.
"Yield of crops in the four states comprising this district this year," telegraphs Mr. Daniel, "was unusually good. Notwithstanding low prices comparatively few failures have occurred and our collections have been good. Undoubtedly heavy production will be made next year in acreage of main money crops, not at all."

MATE SLAIN WHILE WIFE SEES GUNPLAY IN MOVIE

Chicago—(CP)—Mrs. Harry Silverstein, sat in a moving picture theatre last night, watching the gunplay depicted in a talkie picture, while outside in the rear of the building, real bullets were being used to kill her 22-year-old husband. Silverstein was the son of a west side democratic politician and an employee in the county building.
Questioned by police, Robert Lewis, who was at work in the rear of the theatre, said he heard three shots only a few feet away near the back door of the building. As he threw open the door he saw Silverstein stagger a few feet and then collapse. John Jerky told police he saw an automobile speed away after the shooting had been fired.
Mr. and Mrs. Silverstein left the home of his parents earlier during the night to go to the theatre. When they approached the playhouse, however, Silverstein pleaded that he had some work to do, so his wife went in alone.

Dredge Lost After Crash; 57 Rescued

New York—(CP)—Fifty-seven officers and men were rescued from the sinking army dredge Raritan, which settled to the bottom of New York harbor thirty minutes after it was rammed by the liner City of Montgomery today.
The ship, inward bound from Savannah with passengers, ran down the dredge in a heavy haze that lay over the harbor. The mail boat President and a police launch, which were nearby, rescued all but two of the crew after they took off from the damaged craft in lifeboats. The City of Montgomery docked with her bow damaged.
The last two, who clung to the mainmast as the dredge settled into the water, were rescued by two sailors from the President, who rowed to them in a small boat.
The Raritan, built in 1908 at a cost of $191,000, was 290 feet long and had a displacement of 3,911 tons. She was a sister ship of Navesink, which sank two years ago off Staten Island with a loss of more than twenty lives.
Most of the rescued men were scantily dressed when taken from the lifeboats. They had been in their bunks when the crash came, and ran immediately to the task of launching the life boats.
The Raritan's captain, John Peterson of Brooklyn, suffered contusions of the shoulder and abdomen in the collision and was treated at a hospital.

NO CEREMONY WHEN HUNT TAKES OFFICE

Phoenix, Ariz.—(CP)—George W. P. Hunt, picturesque Arizonan, began his seventh term as governor of his state today after the quietest inauguration in the history of Arizona.
While Governor Hunt and John C. Phillips, outgoing chief executive, spent only the ticking of statehouse clocks ended the Phillips regime and ushered in a new one at midnight last night, when the change became effective.
An entirely Democratic administration entered office with Governor Hunt. Phillips and several other state officials are Republicans. Governor Hunt had been six times governor when replaced by Phillips. The inaugural without ceremony was Hunt's idea. He planned to start his official duties at 9 o'clock a. m.

Britain Mourns Death Of Louise, Sister Of Ruler

London—(CP)—All Britain today mourned one of the most democratic of its royal family, Louise, princess royal, nicknamed "her royal shyness," who died in her sleep yesterday of heart disease.
King George at Sandringham was notified of her death, the lord chamberlain immediately ordering a period of four weeks full mourning for the British court and two additional weeks of half mourning. The princess royal, who was the eldest sister of the king, was 53 years old, a year and eight months younger than her imperial brother.
Her death was not unexpected. She had had recurrent attacks of the heart trouble, and in 1925 suffered from a serious gastric hemorrhage, although until recently she

CRASH OCCURS EARLY SUNDAY ON DREW STREET

Mrs. Eugene Sorenson Dies
Instantly and Husband
Is Badly Hurt

Mrs. Eugene Sorenson, 58, 1230 N. Drew-st. was instantly killed and her husband seriously injured when their car collided with the second section of a southbound Chicago and North-western train at 2:30 Sunday morning at the N. Drew-st. crossing.
Mr. Sorenson, janitor at the First National bank, is in St. Elizabeth hospital suffering with concussion of the brain, scalp wounds and a fractured left leg.
The automobile was traveling north on Drew-st when the accident occurred and Mrs. Sorenson was thrown 20 feet from the machine. William R. Dille, Fond du Lac, was engineer of the train and G. L. Stewart, Fond du Lac, was fireman.
The car was tossed to the left of the engine and the train traveled about 200 feet before it was stopped. The automobile was demolished.

Engine Damaged
It is believed the train and car reached the crossing simultaneously, according to W. B. Basing, agent of the railroad company. An investigation conducted by railroad officials shortly after the accident occurred revealed that the pilot beam on the engine was damaged, indicating that the car had struck the train at that point, it was pointed out.

The Sorensons, unconscious when taken from the wreckage, regained consciousness shortly before Sunday noon, but was unable to give a clear account of what occurred, according to officials of the First National bank who visited him.
Mrs. Sorenson is survived by the widower, a daughter, Mrs. Irving Williamson, Appleton; a son, Jerome, Appleton; a brother, Charles Voight, Dayton, Ohio; two sisters, Mrs. Aaron Deeg, Appleton, and Mrs. Bessey Rose, Forest Park, Ill., and two grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Wichmann funeral home where it can be viewed Tuesday afternoon and evening. Wednesday morning the body is to be moved to the home where services are to be conducted at 2 o'clock in the afternoon by the Rev. F. C. Reuter, pastor of First English Lutheran church. Interment will be in Riverside cemetery. Mrs. Sorenson was a member of the Eagle Ladies auxiliary and members of that organization will meet at the home in a body at 12:30 Wednesday afternoon.

An investigation is being conducted by Oscar Schmege, assistant district attorney, and H. E. Ellsworth, county coroner.
A car driven by Elton LaPlant, Mead-st, was damaged when it slipped off the road and into a ditch near Fremont about 8:30 Saturday evening. None of the occupants of the car, Mr. and Mrs. LaPlant, Mr. and Mrs. David Ragen, Wisconsin, was injured. The group was returning from a fishing trip.

Cars Are Damaged

A horse was fatally hurt and two cars and a wagon were damaged in an accident about 7:30 Saturday night on Highway 76, just south of Shiocton. A team pulling a wagon was being driven along the highway when the horses were struck by a car driven by Ed Knoke, Shiocton, according to sheriff John Lappen. One of the horses suffered a broken leg and had to be shot. Just after the accident happened a second car, driven by Miss Charlotte Hoag, Weyauwega, struck the wagon as it stood on the road. Both cars were slightly damaged. None of the occupants was injured.

Packers Consent Decree Modified By Decision Of D. Of C. Supreme Court

Washington—(CP)—The packers consent decree was modified today to allow the four leading groups of packers to handle vegetables, fruits, milk, coffee, teas, cereals and a number of other products up to the doors of retail grocery stores.
They were not allowed, however, under the decision of Justice Jennings Bailey in the District of Columbia Supreme court, to engage in the retailing of meats or other products.
These were the high points in Justice Bailey's ruling in a case which has been in the courts in one form or another, almost since the decree was entered into between the packers and the government in February 1920.
Justice Bailey held there was no evidence that Swift and Company,

U. S. COURT RULES DRY LAW IS LEGAL

Appellate Body Takes Opposite View from That of New Jersey Judge

New York—(CP)—The United States Circuit Court of appeals held today that the eighteenth amendment was constitutionally adopted. It made its ruling in a decision unanimously affirming the conviction of Louis E. Thebaud of Windsor, Vt., accused of possessing and selling two pints of whiskey.
The appellate court thus took a contrary view to that in Newark, N. J., recently by Federal Judge William Clark, who held the eighteenth amendment was illegally adopted.

The decision declared that the supreme court already had decided that "the amendment had been lawfully proposed and ratified and had become a part of the constitution and must be respected and given effect the same as the other provisions of that instrument."
The opinion of the court, written by Judge Manton, said in part: "It is argued that after ratification of the tenth amendment to the amendment giving the national government additional power over the people of their rights can be adopted by the people in convention. The eighteenth amendment was adopted by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states."
"The fifth article of the constitution contemplates by its phrase, two modes of ratification, (1) by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, and (2) by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or other mode of ratification may be proposed by the congress. But it is argued that congress never selected the one appropriate to the nature of the amendment, promised by it, and, it is said that when the fram-

GUARD HALTS FLIGHT OF BADGER CONVICT

Waupun—(CP)—An alert guard prevented the escape from the state penitentiary here today of John McClintock, sentenced to Madison about three years ago for bank robbery, who sought to flee under the cover of a heavy fog.
McClintock was recaptured within the prison walls after he had crawled through a window in the twine making plant which was shrouded in semi-darkness. A guard, who fired one shot as a warning, came upon the prisoner as he covered beneath a truck in a driveway.
The convict is under sentence for assault on an officer in addition to the sentence for robbery. About two years ago, with the use of an imitation gun, he beat his way to the job by of the prison before being subdued.

ON ROUND-THE-WORLD TRIP BY PLANE, SHIP

Abilene, Texas—(CP)—His goal the horizon and this path the air and sea, Barclay S. Warburton Jr., of New York, grandson of the late John Wanamaker and son of a New York broker, planned today to resume his round-the-world journey by plane and boat.
The youthful flier, after leaving Dallas yesterday morning for El Paso, was forced down here by rainy weather. Originally he contemplated arrival tonight at San Diego, but clouds and wind were expected to delay his flight. Against the wishes of his grandmother, Queen Victoria, he will fly to Vancouver, B. C. Then he will ship his plane to Shanghai, to resume his globe girdling by air. The small biplane he familiarly calls "The Beetle" was officially christened "Little Up and Down."

ARMOUR AND COMPANY, WILSON AND COMPANY THE CUDAHY PACKING GROUP HAD A MONOPOLY IN MEAT PACKING. THE GOVERNMENT MADE THIS CHARGE WHEN IT BEGAN PROCEEDINGS AGAINST THE FIVE LEADING PACKING GROUPS, ONE OF WHICH, MORRIS AND COMPANY, HAS BEEN MERGED WITH ARMOUR AND COMPANY SINCE THE LITIGATION BEGAN.

The ruling added that it was thought unwise to allow the packers to own in whole or in part stock yards, market newspapers and terminal railroads. The packers were ordered to comply with these portions of the decree which were allowed to stand.
Frank Hogan, counsel for the packers, said he could make no statement as to the action his clients would take with regard to the opinion.
Government counsel during argument contended Justice Bailey had no authority to modify the decree. The opinion said the government had in effect acknowledged the jurisdiction of the district supreme court.

The National Wholesale Grocers association and the American Wholesale Grocers association intervened in opposition to modification.
The packers under the original agreement were confined almost exclusively to the packing of meat and were forbidden to handle in any way unrelated lines. They took the case to the Supreme court of the United States but the decree was upheld there.

THREE BANK ROBBERS CAPTURED IN OHIO

Monroe, Ohio—(CP)—A "shoot and a half" after two men and a girl failed in an attempt to rob the Monroe National bank they were cornered and arrested in a woods near here, where they hid after their automobile crashed into a culvert while escaping.
The trio registering as Mrs. America Longworth, 19, Franklin, Ohio, mother of a seven months old baby; Noel Craft, 26, Middletown, and Rex Wireman, 20, Middletown.
They were captured by a posse of deputy sheriffs and Middletown officers who said the robbers surrendered without a struggle although they were armed with a machine gun and a revolver.

PLANE MIRE D BUT TWO MEN ESCAPE INJURY

Milwaukee—(CP)—Although his plane was mired today on a farm south of here, Raymond Zuckel, airplane pilot formerly residing at Princeton, Wis., and his passenger, Christ Priebe, were none the worse for a forced landing because of fog. They were flying here from Green Bay and missed the Milwaukee airport, dodged a church steeple and high tension wires by a few feet, and taxied to a stop just in time to avoid hitting a fence.

SUPREME TRIBUNAL REFUSES TO PASS ON U. S. RADIO LAW

Washington—(CP)—The supreme court today declined to pass on the validity of the law under which the radio commission operates.

The controversy reached the court in questions submitted by the circuit court of appeals and involved whether radio broadcasting stations had a property right to the air.
Justice Roberts said the court refused to answer the questions regarding the validity of the Radio act because they were not presented in proper form.

Executive Personnel Is Changed By La Follette

Madison—(CP)—With the exception of a Negro messenger, the entire personnel of the executive office was wiped out by Gov. Philip LaFollette after he took the oath of office here today.
Gov. LaFollette announced the appointment of Jack K. Lyle, White-water, and Edward G. Little, Madison, as executive secretaries, and the appointment of Samuel Becker, Milwaukee, as executive counsel.
Lyle and Little will take over the duties that have been in the hands of Col. William Smith, Neilsville, during the Kohler administration. In announcing the appointments, Gov. LaFollette said he had decided to have two private secretaries who will serve at reduced salaries rather than one secretary as has been the custom in previous state administrations.
Miss Margaret Pollock, Madison, was appointed filing clerk and Edna Bullock, Madison; Gladys Shaver, Deloit, and Bernice Harder, Madison, were appointed stenographers in the executive office. Samuel Pierce, executive messenger who served under Governor Blaine, Zimmermann and Kohler, was the only person in the office to be reappointed.
With the exception of Mr. Becker, all members of the staff began work today. Mr. Becker will assume his duties Jan. 12.
Mr. Lyle was Gov. LaFollette's campaign manager and previously served on the staff of Sen. Robert M. LaFollette. Mr. Little was the governor's private secretary during the campaign.
Both secretaries were graduated from the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Becker was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1922 and attended the public schools of Milwaukee.

SENATE BOOSTS DROUGHT FUND BY 15 MILLION

Votes Additional Appropriation for Food Loans to Humans

Washington—(CP)—Congress voted today that the drought relief fund be increased by $15,000,000. The house approved the $45,000,000 figure for seed, feed and fertilizer loans requested by the administration. The senate not only did that but—on motion of Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas—added $15,000,000 more to be advanced for food purchases by farmers whose crops were hit. No record votes were taken.
The bill went back to the house for action on the food loan amendment. If it refuses to accept that, as seems likely in view of the strong administration objections to the principle involved, and if the senate persists in its stand—then a conference between the two branches will be in order.
Efforts are expected to be made to send the legislation to the White House as quickly as possible.
C. W. Warburton, secretary of the national drought relief committee, testified in congressional hearings on it that loans would be made available within a week after the president signs the appropriation bill.
The drought bill was the smallest of three put before the house which called for a $88,000,000 total. The first efficiency bill was brought out by the appropriation committee, seeking $92,333,000 for payments on all sorts of governmental activities.
The other bill was for war department financing in the next fiscal year, to the extent of $46,024,000 for military and waterways work. The senate heard from Senator Caraway also on the matter of cash payment of veterans' compensation certificates. He failed in an attempt to have the cash conversion proposal brought up for immediate consideration.

La Follette Starts Study

Tomorrow the senate appropriations committee will launch a study of its own into the unemployment and drought situations. It was ordered through adoption of a resolution by Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, and upon its findings is expected to rest the treatment to be given the numerous relief proposals introduced. Adding to these, a new move for food loans for the hard hit farmers was started by Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas. He planned introducing a bill appropriating $15,000,000 specifically for this purpose.
More nominations also are to come up in the senate. It has not passed yet on the president's appointees to the reorganized tariff commission, some of them opposed by various senators and the commission, some of them opposed by various senators and the naming of Eugene Meyer as governor of the Federal Reserve board is to be considered.

CREW MUTINIES ABOARD AMERICAN FREIGHTER

Istanbul, Turkey—(CP)—A mutiny in the crew of the American freighter Hopatone was disclosed today when she reached here from Odessa with her captain wounded and her crew missing.
The crew deserted at Odessa and the officers navigated the ship here from the Black-sea port. She put into Odessa with a cargo of machinery from New York, and the crew of six men went ashore after the cargo was unloaded.
When they came back they piled aboard shouting they had turned communists. Roaring into the skipper's cabin, they knifed Captain Begsten and scrambled off the ship.

SANITY TEST FOR WIDOW WHO SHOT HER HUSBAND

Basin, Wyo.—(CP)—Freedom of Mrs. Leona Pittman, confessed slayer of her husband, was barred today only by a sanity test.
The widow was acquitted yesterday on a charge of murder by a jury which heard unchallenged the state's version that the shot Charles Pittman, former Grebbill, Wyo. postmaster the night of Aug. 23, after accusing him of infidelity and hid his body in range grass. She pleaded temporary insanity.
Two physicians who testified at the trial Mrs. Pittman was sane are members of the commission which, by order of District Judge Percy Meitz, will pass at a later date upon her sanity.

TRACE POISON LIQUOR WHICH KILLED 11 MEN

Omaha, Neb.—(CP)—Chemists analyzed liquor blamed for 11 recent deaths today, while Dr. S. McChughan, county coroner's physician, described it as "the worst poison liquor he had ever encountered."
Six men died last Friday, three Saturday, one last night and another early today. Paul Emmington, 55, seriously ill from the effects of the liquor which he admitted drinking together with three of the dead men, gave information on the source of the supply, police said.
Police raids continued among the taverns and cauals of the cheap liquor where most of the men affected by the liquor were found.

POMP LACKING AS PHIL TAKES HELM OF STATE

ESCORTED BY KOHLER

Takes Job on Nearly Same Spot Where Father Took
Office 30 Years Ago

Madison—(CP)—In a simple, yet impressive, inaugural ceremony in the rotunda of the state capital, 33-year-old Philip LaFollette became governor of Wisconsin today.
Almost thirty years ago to the day, the same honors were bestowed upon his father, the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette. The oath of office was administered by Marvin E. Rosenberry, chief justice of the supreme court.

Only a few minutes were consumed in the process of converting "Phil" from a practicing lawyer into the chief executive of the commonwealth. He was called to the middle of the flag-draped platform by William R. Bagley, master of ceremonies, and was accompanied by Walter Kohler, the outgoing governor whom he defeated in the primary election last September.

When Governor LaFollette with his hand raised, distinctly enunciated "I do" to the oath, a great cheer arose from some 3,000 persons who thronged the building to witness the ceremony.
After Mr. Kohler walked back to their places on the extreme left of the stand.
Then, in turn, Chief Justice Rosenberry administered the oaths of office to Lieutenant Governor Henry Huber presented by Fred L. Holmes, Madison attorney; Secretary of State George Dammann, presented by Henry Meigs, Milwaukee; Attorney General John Bergolds, presented by Roy S. Green Bay, and Treasurer Solomon Lewis, presented by August O. Pannack, Madison banker.

Cheers Greet Governor
After all officials had been inducted, Master of Ceremonies Bagley presented the new governor to the audience. As Governor LaFollette walked to the center of the platform he was again greeted with thunderous applause and a series of flashes from a score of newspaper photographers.
The new governor took this occasion to thank the people of the state for his victory in the election, assuring them he was "profoundly conscious of the obligation I have assumed."

Each of the contributions was made in recognition of a specific need of the library service program, and as a result of the generous funds placed at the disposal of authorities, the library service has been maintained at an ever increasing effectiveness.
The survey staff of the Methodist board of education, in reporting on the condition of the library last spring, lauded the efficiency of its program and the effective way in which it served students and faculty, but called attention to the need for more stack room. Since the survey staff made its report the need for stack room has become more acute in view of the recent additions to the library stock.

The anonymous gift just announced has made possible further utilization of the space now available in the library and at the same time will accommodate the new books being purchased.

Need Great Courage
"There has seldom been a time when called for greater intelligence, finer courage, and steadier hands."
"I am confident that the men and women of Wisconsin will respond to meet the emergency that confronts us. Wisconsin will then be true to its tradition. Wisconsin will again assume leadership in sound, effective and constructive solution of the greatest economic problems that have confronted mankind."
"Virtually every vantage point in the building was taken by the spectators. The stairways leading to upper floors were thronged as were the galleries. More than 50 persons had climbed to the balcony which runs around the rotunda some 75 feet from the floor and one during the ceremony had climbed to near the top of a pillar where he perched precariously."

Asks General Support
"The sharpest critics of your official conduct will not be those persons who look upon you particularly. Mr. Governor-Elect, as the apostle of a new day and a better order," the chief justice said.

"In you they achieve vision—something of their own hopes and aspirations. Although they may not always agree with you, nevertheless in very great sense you are now their leader. In your prospective positions of moral leadership I be-

446 Million Asked For War Department In Bill Given To House

335 MILLION IS REQUESTED FOR MILITARY WORK

Provision Would Deny Pay to Officers Who Write for Paid Publication

Washington—(AP)—An appropriation of $446,024,000 was allowed the war department for maintenance of the army and prosecution of waterway projects next fiscal year in the annual supply bill received today by the house.

The military activities drew $334,556,000 including $134,664,000 for pay, while engineering activities received $111,067,000, of which $60,000,000 was designated for rivers and harbors, $35,000,000 for flood control on the Mississippi and $1,000,000 for Sacramento river flood control.

The measure carried $380,000 less than appropriations for the current year, and was $4,315,000 below the budget bureau estimates. The new provision was for a force of 118,000 men.

Two legislative provisions were made. A legislative provision would prohibit payment of salaries to officers on the active list who are employed or engaged in any manner with a publication carrying paid advertisements. This is directed at officers who have been writing for magazines and undoubtedly will meet with opposition in both senate and house.

List Large Items
Among the large allotments for military purposes were $31,915,000 for the air corps, which is expected to practically complete the five year expansion program; $22,061,000 for subsistence, clothing, equipment, transportation, and construction; $20,816,000 for ordnance, including repairs at arsenals; $23,058,000 for the militia, and $2,666,000 for the military academy at West Point. Citizens military training camps received $5,771,000, while the organized reserves were awarded $6,785,000.

Hearings on the bill before the house appropriations committee developed that since the middle of 1925 the government has spent $566,986,801 on aviation activities of all sorts.

The figure was presented by Major James E. Fechet, chief of the army air corps, who placed expenditures for his branch since 1925 at $372,336,597.

Costs of other government air activities included: Postoffice $35,127,715; navy $236,075,134; commerce department $13,429,073.

Included in the $31,915,740 allotment to the air corps is $200,000, for research to determine whether the corps should build a "linean"—or metal-clad dirigible. Three hundred thousand dollars also will be spent to purchase three non-rigid airships.

13 Million for Planes
For new airplanes, the department was allowed $15,296,231.

By June of 1932, General Fechet said the army will have on hand or ordered 1,532 useful airplanes, while the national guard will have 152 more.

Under the military section of the bill the Panama Canal Zone was given $2,739,000 but $11,490,000 was allowed for maintenance and operation of the big ditch and the civil government.

Important non-military allowances included $1,161,000 for national cemeteries; $1,785,000 for national military parks; $800,000 for roads and bridges Alaska; and $293,000 for the Washington-Alaska cable; $254,000 for Muscle Shoals dam No. 2; $17,000 for the California debris commission and $400,000 for a Mississippi valley flood emergency fund.

The national cemeteries allowance included $7,680 for the Antietam battle field and $320 for monuments in Cuba and China.

The national military park allotments included: For the Gettysburg park, Pennsylvania, $72,015 for repairs and road work; for Lincoln Birthplace memorial, Illinois, $7,140; for survey of battlefields $5,300.

Wilbert Boettcher, 22, Brillion, was sentenced in circuit court at Oshkosh Saturday to one to two years in the state reformatory for burglary, but sentence was suspended and he was given permission to apply to the state board of control for parole. Boettcher pleaded guilty of entering a barn owned by Robert G. P. town of Rantoul, in the night time with the intention of stealing. The offense took place the night of Dec. 23. District Attorney Anthony E. Macler, of Calumet-co, did not object to Boettcher's application for parole.

ASKS 8 BILLION MORE TO TAKE UP BOND ISSUE

20 Billion Already Authorized in Second Liberty Loan Finance

Washington—(AP)—With $20,000,000 in bonds already authorized to take up Second Liberty Loan bonds, Secretary Mellon today asked congress to authorize issuance of $8,000,000,000 more.

Chairman Hawley, of the house ways and means committee, said the proposed increase would not increase the public debt but would permit the government to refund maturing bonds at a lower rate of interest. The secretary is preparing for re-financing of the outstanding Liberty loan bonds issued during the war which are callable in the next two years.

A total of $1,933,545,750 of First Liberty Loan bonds which bear interest at 4 1/2 per cent and 3 1/2 per cent can be called in June, 1932. In addition, $2,588,241,150 of 4 1/2 per cent Fourth Liberty Loan bonds are callable in October, 1933.

If the treasury had authority to issue new bonds to take up the outstanding Liberty Loan bonds, the treasury could take advantage of interest rates which promise to be lower than at the time the Liberty Loan bonds were issued.

Under the Second Liberty Bond act as amended the secretary was authorized to issue bonds not exceeding $20,000,000,000. Under that authority, $13,107,942,750 in bonds has been issued, leaving a balance of only $1,892,057,250.

Secretary Mellon also recommended legislation amending the Second Liberty Bond act, authorizing the secretary of the treasury to exempt further issues of securities from the surtax as well as the normal tax.

The legislation would exempt the bonds from taxes on both principal and interest, except estate and inheritance taxes.

QUICK RESPONSE TO APPEALS FOR AID FOR INDIANS

Committee Requests More Donations of Food and Clothing at Once.

BY H. K. DERUS
Kind hearted citizens of Outagamie-co, having read of the desperate plight of destitute families of Oneida, responded Monday morning with donations of food, clothing and cash, according to John E. Hantschel, county clerk, and secretary of a volunteer committee which is attempting to relieve the conditions in Oneida.

Monday morning the committee received $20 in cash, several large bundles of clothing, a large amount of fruit, and many telephone calls from citizens offering help. P. M. Conkey, chairman of the Outagamie County Red Cross, told Mr. Hantschel that his organization stood ready to offer any relief possible. Other members of the volunteer committee are Fred V. Heinemann, county judge; George J. Schneider, congressman; P. R. Appleton, county highway commissioner; F. M. Garvey, Oneida town chairman. Mr. Hantschel has been appointed to receive donations, and Mr. Garvey, with the town board has volunteered to distribute the donations to the needy Indians.

Mr. Hantschel said Monday morning that clothing and foodstuffs are needed badly. Potatoes, cabbage, flour, sugar and any other staple groceries will be appreciated, he indicated.

Have No Money
The extreme want of these Indians is the result of the depression which robbed them of the odd jobs they usually secured during the summer and fall, enabling them to save a few dollars to tide them over the winter. Without this reserve the Indians appealed to the town for help. Appeals have reached such great proportions, however, that the town treasury is depleted and there is no prospect of further funds until the tax roll is collected in March.

A petition by the town board to the federal Indian bureau for $5,000 to aid the Indians, has been denied because the Indians are no longer charges of the government. They lost their right to government aid when their reservation was allotted to them many years ago. Deeds to the land they owned soon passed into the hands of whites and the Indians were left penniless. Many of them are squatting on property they do not own.

Hundreds of these Indians are crowded into wretched huts and hovels throughout the town. These sheds are, in many cases, not even as good as hen and pig houses on some farms.

Without firewood, clothing and food, scores of Indian families are facing the prospect of starving and freezing. Their only fuel is the few bits of wood there are able to forage from the brush lands near which they live. Many small boys and girls are without shoes and stockings and must remain indoors continually.

Many of these Indian families have from 10 to 15 children and are crowded into tiny shacks with barely enough room to move about. In many cases a single rusty, cracked stove serves as the heating plant and the cook stove. Indian mothers and fathers sit up all night stuffing pieces of rotten logs and tiny branches of trees into the stove to keep their families from freezing.

The cramped quarters in which the Indians are living, plus their weekend condition brought about by lack of proper food and clothing, makes the situation very perilous. If an epidemic of any kind should touch this group it would spread like fire through tinder. Hundreds might lose their lives.

A trip through the district last week by the volunteer committee led to the appeal for help which appeared in the Appleton Post-Crescent Saturday. The committee was gratified Monday by the response but declared that the response must continue. It issued another appeal Monday night asking more citizens to offer help.

ASK 92 MILLION AS DEFICIENCY FUND MEASURE

$55,750,000 Needed to Meet Emergencies Under Veterans Affairs

Washington—(AP)—A deficiency appropriation of $92,393,328, including $55,750,000 to meet emergencies in the administration of veterans' affairs, and $34,000,000 to federal highway aid, was recommended today to the house by its appropriation committee.

The sum of $36,250,000 was needed, the committee reported, for aid to veterans authorized under the Pension and Disability act of last July, while $12,500,000 is required to meet the increased pensions granted Civil and Spanish American war veterans under the liberalized act of last June.

General Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, advised the committee that further sum probably would be needed before the end of this congress, as a result of new legislation granting disability compensation and hospitalization to men not injured in the war.

"The $34,000,000 item for federal highway aid, was to meet expenditures of states under the fund increased last year from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 annually and to assist in the disposal of the 30,000,000 recently made available for state use on highway construction.

The agriculture department also obtained $675,000 to reimburse Arizona cotton growers who were prevented by pink boll worm quarantine from growing a crop, and $38,980 for administration of the War Relocation act due to storing what and cotton by the Federal Farm board.

An allotment of $505,760 was made to the justice department, of which $43,370 is for the prohibition bureau.

Testifying before the committee on the present measure, General Hines warned that care must be taken by congress in legislating for the World War veterans.

"We have $500,000 to deal with," he said, "and any benefit granted, no matter how small, is bound to run into terrific amounts of money, when you take it in the aggregate."

"The economic situation created during the past year by reason of the existing business depression and the nation-wide publicity given to the present law by ex-service men's organizations . . . has had its effect in causing the filing of claims by veterans who were probably carrying on, and would not have filed them otherwise."

LEGION EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS
The executive committee of Oney Johnson post of the American legion will meet at 6 o'clock tonight at the Elk club. The business affairs will be preceded by a dinner. The post will meet at 8 o'clock at the club. Among the subjects to be discussed is the adjusted compensation bill.

Expect Pope's Encyclical On Marriage During Week

Rome—(AP)—The strict Roman Catholic doctrine on marriage is expected to be reiterated and emphasized in the encyclical which Pope Pius will issue this week.

The encyclical, it is understood, will restate Catholicism's disapproval of divorce, and will emphasize that only by continuance within the marriage state can families be limited without transgressing divine law.

"As seen here this restatement will comprise the pontiff's answer to a qualified admission of birth control in certain cases which the Anglican bishops made in the Lambeth conference held in London last summer."

It is understood too that mixed marriages will be the subject of special comment in the encyclical which probably will re-emphasize the duty of bishops before granting dispensations for such unions to obtain a written promise from the non-Catholic contractant guaranteeing the faith of the children and guaranteeing the right of worship by the Catholic party.

It is expected to be also a reiteration of the duty of the Catholic party to pray unceasingly for the conversion of the non-Catholic spouse and by force of example and piety of life to induce the conversion as a Catholic.

This section of the prospective encyclical, it is understood, has been motivated by the service said at Sofia, Bulgaria, for King Boris and Queen Joanna, when they reached there after their marriage at Assisi, Italy. Whatever the real character of the Sofia service it was represented widely in Bulgaria as a second marriage service, according to Greek Orthodox rite, which was regarded as contrary to the promise

NEW MOTOR CAR ON DISPLAY AT NATIONAL SHOW

1931 Automobile Is Larger, More Comfortable, and More Powerful

BY ROBERT MOUNTSIEER
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
New York—(CFA)—The 1931 motor car is here, P. O. E., Grand Central Palace, at the national automobile show, which is New York's thirty-first annual family party for America's automobile industry. The doors of the palace opened Saturday afternoon and a minute later the public was banging the doors of the new car—just to see what it's like.

Begotten of a long line of ancestors whose progress has ranged from one lung to multiple cylinders, the automobile of 1931 is an eight, but it may be a four or a sixteen, a six or a twelve. This car of the day and next week, of this year, is more machine for less lucre. Indeed, it is more than any car ever before exhibited at a national automobile show.

The American car of 1931 is more powerful, more comfortable, more luxurious, more beautiful, is safer, better engineered, more strongly built, more economical and more silent than any of its predecessors or than any typical car of British or of continental manufacture.

Passengers have more space for head, shoulders and the rest of their anatomy down to the feet, for which there are wells to sink 'em in, pneumatic cushions to rest 'em on and heaters to keep 'em from getting cold.

Seats Are Wider
Seats are not only wider for all concerned—even three is not a crowd under certain circumstances—but they are also softer and more adjustable.

Back-seat drivers can adjust backs and bottoms of the seats to conform to a wide variety of ideas and figures. The man behind the wheel can profess himself with an arm-rest against the crowding of an amorous girl friend or wife, and he can also sit and shift himself as well as the gears.

Thanks to the war of the transmissions, which is now being waged with New York as the first important battleground. The driver of the car of 1931 makes short shift of shifting. Merely he rolls along, synchro-meshing, three—speeding, four—speeding and five—wheeling, while he hitches, hitches between low and high without stripping gears and, ripping oaths. What with the transmissions requiring ball-bearings and buttons, also herring-bone bears—that doesn't mean the gears have as many teeth as a herring has bones—various cars at the show of footless clutches, useless firsts, silent second and noiseless minutes.

Springs Ride Better
Three-spoke steering wheels are numerous, and instrument boards are more practical in appearance and less decorative. Various forms of steering stabilizers help to take the shudder out of shimmy and the palpitation out of passengers. Springs and the folks above them ride better because of rubber-bushed shackles and other improvements in mounting, and a lot of the springs wear panties.

The body has less of its horse and buggy ancestry about it and more of the airplane and yacht. It is streamlined and aerodynamic. It appears smart and well-tailored—altogether beautiful to the 1931 eye without being modernistic or looking too far forward into the future.

Girl "Lindy" On 8,000-Mile Air Trip

Amey Johnson, Britain's "girl Lindy," who recently stirred the world by a lone flight from London to Australia—nearly 10,000 miles in 19 days—is now undertaking another epochal air journey, this time from London to Peking, China. Her 1000-mile route, which lies across much of Europe and Asia, including Siberia and the great Gobi desert, is shown above in the heavy black line. The dotted line shows the route of her previous flight to Australia. Miss Johnson is shown above in her plane and in street attire.

Despite a mishap 60 miles north of Warsaw when she smashed the undercarriage of her plane in making a forced landing yesterday, Miss Johnson was understood today to intend continuing her much opposed flight to Peking, China. Word from Moscow indicates that Russian air officials and aviators, convinced that they cannot deter her from her projected flight across Siberia and Mongolia, are mapping out the best route to her destination for her.

Sportsman Scores State For Conservation Methods

BY B. A. CLAFLIN
I read with great interest recently a story of hunting and trapping wild ducks and pigeons near Madison. It was no revelation to me, for I was born and spent my boyhood days near Madison, in the famous fish and game region described.

I was interested in his concluding remarks, when he said: "Soon, however, La. Follette discovered that a few well disciplined platoons of game wardens would make a fine cog in his political machine." Everybody knows that to be true, and today a great many are wondering if conservation matters have changed even a little bit in that respect. It is not constructive conservation to maintain a force of wardens simply to arrest violators. When such arrests are made the fines of those convicted go to enrich the state school fund. I pronounce it rotten politics and misdirected efforts put forth with a lot of "blatant" and with a direct intention of hoodwinking the sportsmen who pay for the privilege of hunting during the short open seasons.

A recent article in the Wisconsin magazine by Mr. Kipp, of the Wisconsin conservation commission, stated: "A total of 291 arrests were made by wardens in October which resulted in $7,687 fine money going to the school fund."

Fine conservation, that. Why does this money not go into the conservation fund where it belongs? Apparently, its diversion into school channels is approved by the conservation commission. They do not seem to be working to have it corrected, at least so far as any of us know. And Mr. Maunthe, the head of that body, states openly that they must "raise more money." And he blandly proposes to do it by licensing every angler in the state, in other words, making every vacationist or farmer boy pay into the school fund (?) one dollar for the privilege of perhaps catching a couple of perch.

It is to be hoped that Phil LaFollette will veto the bill if it comes up again, as Kohler so wisely did. It don't fit in Wisconsin. Lincoln said something about it being possible to fool all of the people some of the time, etc. You know what I mean.

If the commission really wants to do something constructive for conservation why in the name of all common sense don't they use their efforts and influence to close Lake Winnebago winter pike fishing? And, also, the taking of 2,000 to 3,000 pike and muskies that are being caught daily in the Chippewa reservoir through the ice? All winter ice fishing should be stopped at once, that is, for game fish. It is being done purely for meat—certainly not for sport. In fact, there is nothing sporting about it. And it is doing more to ruin the chief summer asset of northern Wisconsin than anything else.

WOMEN OPERATE STREET CARS IN RUSSIA NOW

Moscow—(AP)—Russian street cars have women "motormen" and conductors—and tramway officials say they do the job as well if not better than men.

"Why shouldn't a woman run a street car?" queried one "motorman" when it was suggested her job might be a hard one.

"I find it not nearly so hard as sewing and housekeeping. If you will look up the records you will find that women tram operators have fewer accidents than the men."

BUSY WEEK FACES COUNCIL MEMBERS

Proposed Incinerator One of Chief Topics for Discussion

After three weeks of comparative quiet in city hall circles, city fathers this week will spend most of their evening hours troubling over incinerators, finances, and all the other problems tugging at the elbows of city officials right now. Monday evening the council will meet for an informal discussion at the home of Mayor John Goodland Jr. A dinner at 6:30 will precede the business meeting. On Tuesday evening the mayor will call a meeting of either the board of public works or the entire council, as a committee, to discuss garbage disposal information. Wednesday evening the first council meeting of the new year will be held, and inasmuch as a three week period has elapsed since the last meeting, it is expected that the docket will be unusually crowded. The big subject of discussion, of course, will be the proposed incinerator.

During the next two days a number of committees will meet, though several met before the close of the old year.

POLICEMEN FIND NINE DOORS OPEN IN MONTH

Despite oft-repeated warnings from Police Chief George T. Prim to merchants and professional men to lock the doors to their business places at night, nine doors were found open in December, the chief said. This is but little improvement over previous months, the chief pointed out, and indicates that merchants and professional men are exceedingly careless in this respect. Unlocked doors, the chief said, breed crime and often result in theft or larceny because of the ease which the criminal finds access to offices.

CAR IS RECOVERED SHORTLY AFTER THEFT

A sedan owned by C. W. Miller, 129 Fifth-st., Menasha, was stolen between 7:30 and 10:30 Sunday night from a parking place on S. Morrison-st. The car was recovered shortly after the theft was reported by Officer George Behrendt on E. Water-st. The officer noticed the car being driven along Water-st. In the car were two young boys and two young girls. Later when the officer made his call to the station he was notified of the theft. When he walked back along Water-st. he discovered the abandoned car.

Are "Unemployed Apples" Sold By Unemployed Men?

Washington — (AP)—Between now and Jan. 15, when a new unemployment census starts in 20 cities, Census Director William Stewart, has a puzzling question to decide—whether persons selling "unemployed apples" should be tabulated as unemployed.

P. A. Gosnell, returning last week from an organization trip for the unemployed census in Chicago, Buffalo, Detroit, New York and Philadelphia, informed the director several thousand persons would be involved in such a decision.

On the assumption that the unemployed apples question, complicated by unemployed tangerines, chocolate bars, and other street corner wares of the emergency situation, would arise in all the other cities to be canvassed, Gosnell asked a ruling.

"In my investigation I learned that many of these men were earning a good living selling apples under the unemployed placard," he said.

Gosnell's preliminary survey of the situation showed it would be necessary to draw a very fine dividing line on that oldest subject of contention, the apple.

While relief committees have the situation in hand in some cities, issuing apples only to the bona-fide unemployed, in other places the new street corner custom is almost without supervision.

Right in front of the census bureau building, a fruit vendor who has been selling apples to a lunch-hour trade for many months was noted as having adopted an unemployed placard to meet the competition. In some cities there were even rumors of men quitting warehouse jobs to sell apples, as being more profitable.

Legislative Committee Strikes Against Normal Schools

TREND TOWARD COLLEGES NOW, REPORT HOLDS

Too Many Teacher Training Institutions in State, Group Says

Madison—(P)—The death knell of the county normal school in Wisconsin was sounded by the legislative interim committee on education today in the second report on the proposed recommendations to the 1931 legislature.

In the first report, the committee recommended the establishment of a central state board of education which would take over the administrative duties now held by more than a score of education agencies in the state.

The committee pointed out five defects in the present system of teacher training in Wisconsin. There are too many training institutions, a lack of a standard, "forward looking" plan, much duplication, jealousy of training and waste and no single official or body accountable for present results, the committee said.

That the committee would recommend the abandonment of county normal schools was evident from the report. It pointed out that with the exception of Michigan and Wisconsin, all states have given up this instrument of education and that the national trend is toward teachers colleges.

"Wisconsin wants to take a constructive step forward and give rural children a type of education equal to that of the cities, then the teacher colleges should be given the entire job of training elementary teachers, regardless of whether they are to teach in the city or country schools," the committee said.

In Good Position
"Wisconsin is in a fortunate position to make this change as the state has provided 11 teacher training colleges located in practically every section of the state. The commission believes it is a waste of time to discuss the feasibility of abolishing any of the teacher colleges. These colleges are going educational concerns with millions invested in land and buildings. There is a possibility of making one or two of these institutions into junior colleges but it would be inadvisable at the present time."

The committee also criticized the present method of teacher certification and suggested that a revision be made. Under the present method, 163 local officials with varying standards are permitted to license teachers. The existing plan does not distinguish between types of teachers nor is a distinction made between teachers who have years of training and experience and inexperienced teachers, the committee said.

"Better teachers are the key to a better educational system," the committee said. "A modern certification law can be made a very effective agency for building up the teaching profession. Standards for teaching should be the same throughout the state. The state must assume this responsibility. The proposed central board of education is the logical agency to handle this activity."

The rural school teacher in Wisconsin is "immature, poorly trained and inexperienced" because the standards for teaching in rural schools are lower than in the cities, the committee said. Because of low salaries and inadequate living conditions in the rural sections, teachers stay little interest in their work and stay only until a better position is available, according to the committee.

"As a result," the committee said, "the rural child's educational offering is a joke as compared to the city youngster. The day has arrived for a new deal for rural children. The same standards should be required of all teachers, regardless of whether they teach in the country, villages or cities. The existing provision of one year of training in addition to high school graduation should be raised to two years. Such a move will automatically give the rural school a mature teacher, one with a broader educational background and one in a position to assume a position of leadership in rural life."

NYE TO INVESTIGATE VOTE FUND IN MONTANA
Washington—(P)—The senate campaign fund committee probably will go to Montana to investigate rumors that $100,000 was pledged to Republican state leaders for use against the re-election of Senator Walsh, Democrat.

Chairman Nye said today the rumors were that on the basis of the $100,000 pledge, the Republican state committee incurred a large indebtedness and that it still was $40,000 in debt.

$155,000 WILL BE SPENT NEXT YEAR ALONG FOX

Most of Appropriation Is for Reconstruction of Kaukauna Dam

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—An allotment of $155,000 for work on the Fox river will be made out of the $60,000,000 fund for rivers and harbors improvement and maintenance provided in the War department appropriation bill reported to the House of Representatives today by the Committee on Appropriations.

While either more or less may go to the Fox river in the fiscal year from July 1, 1931 to June 30, 1932, this is the present estimate of the engineers as to the amount to be spent. The Secretary of War recently allotted $28,000 for work on the Fox river out of the emergency public works fund of $22,500,000 for waterways work.

Of the $155,000 for the Fox river, $133,460 is to be used for reconstruction of the badly decayed timber dam at Kaukauna. The new dam is to be built of concrete and will provide adequate discharge capacity for maximum flood.

The rest of the fund is to be used for dredging, about $10,000, and for engineering and contingencies, about $6,540.

During the present fiscal year, ending June 30, the government is spending $138,820 on the Fox river, in addition to the $28,000 from the emergency fund, the biggest job being the completion of the Rapids Creek dam.

Other waterways benefit Out of the $60,000,000 provided for improvement and maintenance of rivers and harbors throughout the country, the following amounts will be spent on Wisconsin waterways, according to the present plans of the army engineers, which call for revised to meet new conditions that may arise.

Duluth-Superior harbor, $88,000 for improvement and maintenance, an additional $156,000 having been allotted to it out of the emergency public works fund.

Green Bay harbor, $15,000 for improvement and $14,000 for maintenance.

Fox river, $155,000 for maintenance, including a new dam at Kaukauna replacing the old dam.

Sturgeon Bay and Lake Michigan ship canal, $100,000 for maintenance.

Algoma harbor, $5,000 for maintenance.

Two Rivers harbor, $45,000 for maintenance.

Mantowee harbor, $7,000 for maintenance.

Sheboygan harbor, $18,000 for maintenance.

Fort Washington harbor, $7,000 for maintenance.

Milwaukee harbor, $415,000 for improvement and $15,000 for maintenance.

Racine harbor, $12,500 for maintenance.

Kenosha harbor, $5,000 for maintenance.

Ashland harbor, $100,000 for improvement and $20,000 maintenance, this being an increase of $120,000 in Ashland's allotment made possible by the release of emergency funds to other projects.

Upper Mississippi system, $600,000 for improvement and $300,000 for maintenance between the mouth of the Wisconsin river and Minneapolis, $1,400,000 for improvement and $300,000 for maintenance between the Illinois and the Wisconsin rivers, the total for the Mississippi between the Missouri and Minneapolis amounting to $3,375,000 for new work and $1,425,000 for maintenance.

St. Croix river in Wisconsin and Minnesota, $250,000 for maintenance. Wisconsin is also interested in an allotment of $500,000 for the St. Lawrence waterway system, which will eventually become a part of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, of and when that is authorized by Congress, and an allotment of $145,000 for improvement and $115,000 for maintenance of connecting channels in the Great Lakes system, a project which will cost about $27,000,000 and will also form part of the outlet from the Middle West to the Atlantic.

FOOD PROMISED TO ARKANSAS FARMERS IN DROUGHT AREA

England, Ark.—(P)—Food was available today to allay the hunger of 300 or more drought-ridden farmers who made sanguinary threats against merchants on Saturday.

Authorities estimated the immediate allowance would not last longer than tonight, but with a view to future policy, Albert Evans, Red Cross relief director for Arkansas, and Henry M. Baker, special representative of the national organization, came to England.

A plea for orderly requisitioning of supplies was issued by local relief authorities. Albert Walls, county Red Cross chairman, assured needy farmers "no body was going to starve."

These assurances from relief quarters were believed to have a steady influence upon farmers in this section, many of whom are destitute through a combination of economic conditions, drought and virtual failure of the money crop, cotton.

QUIET FOLLOWS CHURCH CLASH IN CHICAGO ROW

Substitute Priest Says Mass Under Heavy Police Guard

Chicago—(P)—Quiet prevailed today at the parish of St. Mary Magdalene church, following a disturbance during which several hundred parishioners, resisting removal of their pastor, the Rev. Edward A. Kowalewski, fought with police. Ten men were arrested but were subsequently released without charges. Police said that some of them were hoodlums and not affiliated with the church.

The trouble, coming as a prelude to the early Sunday morning mass, began when a group of young men climbed through the church windows and started ringing the bells. Others lighted a bonfire. Aroused by the noise, scores of parishioners hurried to the scene and a riot ensued of 125 police dispersed the crowd by using their clubs on the leaders. A newspaper reporter was manhandled by a group of men.

Mass was said by the Rev. Peter Bona, pastor of a neighboring church under a heavy police guard. He denounced the demonstrators for attempting to resist the Rev. Kowalewski's removal. He said the Rev. Kowalewski, given a canonical trial by order of Cardinal Mundelein after he had struck an assistant, had been relieved of duty pending appeal of his case to church authorities at Rome. Msgr. Anthony Halgas of Calumet city, the Rev. Bona added, would act as temporary pastor.

A score or more of members of the congregation continued to stand in front of the church all today, but for no reason maintained order. A police guard was also used at another house of worship yesterday, St. Mary's Greek catholic church. About 800 old members of the congregation in a dispute with the parish priest, the Rev. Allan Brantovich, were kept out of the church, but moved to another building where services were held.

"We are in the midst of a crisis when war, misery and real unhappiness have entered the homes of thousands of worthy citizens," the chief justice continued. "It is not only a financial and industrial crisis but a moral and spiritual crisis as well. Great pressure will be brought upon those in authority to do a little wrong in order that a great benefit may be achieved. . . . In times like these those in authority must take care that impracticable, sentimentalism and humanitarianism are not substituted for measures dictated by a sound, well-informed, reasoned judgment. ALABAMA CONVICTS BEGIN TO RETURN FROM BRIEF PAROLE

Montgomery, Ala.—(P)—Keeping faith with Governor Bibb Graves, more than 300 state prisoners were returning today over roads that led to home and freedom two weeks ago.

Already a few have entered the prisons at Kilby, Speigner, Atmore, and the road camps, although their Christmas paroles do not end officially until 6 p. m. tomorrow.

"Things ain't like they used to be," said one Negro life who has been in prison more than a decade. He came back to Kilby after only a few days of freedom.

Folks all changed; town's all changed; friends all gone," he said, as he appeared for admission. Prison officials had made up a purse for him to visit home.

In previous years more than 99 per cent of the convicts paroled for Christmas have returned on time and Hamp Draper, head of the state convict department, said he expected that ratio to be maintained this year.

The group released included many convicts serving life terms for murder, some of them with more than 20 years in prison behind them. Those returning today checked in their "outside clothes," donned the prison duck uniforms and went back into the prison routine.

OFFICERS ARE SWORN IN FOR COUNTY JOBS

All Officials Return to Positions—Many Deputies Reappointed

County officers, all of whom were re-elected at the November election, took their oaths of office this morning. The officers are: A. G. Koch, register of deeds; Sydney M. Shannon, clerk of courts; Miss Marie Zeigenthaler, county treasurer; John E. Hantschel, county clerk; John Lappen, sheriff; Stanley A. Staid, district attorney; B. M. Charlesworth, surveyor; Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, coroner.

Most of the deputy county officers and assistants were expected to be reappointed by their superiors. Those having already been appointed include: Miss Marge Fose and Mrs. Angela Gressenz, deputy registers of deeds; Miss Agnes Gressenz, deputy clerk of courts; Miss Molly Pfeiffer, deputy county clerk; and Miss Alice Hertzfeld, deputy treasurer. Oscar J. Schmeigle is expected to be re-named assistant district attorney, and Edward Lutz is expected to be reappointed undersheriff.

Terms of all deputy sheriffs appointed by Sheriff John Lappen during his last term of office expired this morning. Sheriff Lappen said he is asking deputies to turn in their stars. He has not yet decided what deputies are to be reappointed and adding that this decision would rest with the county board committee under whose supervision he is reappointing his organization. The county board in November adopted a new plan for the county and roadhouse regulation and ordinance providing for supervised dances in licensed places. This will necessitate the appointment of a large staff of dance inspectors, which the sheriff will name later. The board also authorized the sheriff to engage four special deputies, who are to receive $25 per month salary for part time work. Just how this additional salary will be expended, the sheriff has not yet decided, but he expected to do so at a meeting with the committee Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Umphrey formerly lived at Neenah.

CONDITIONS OF CRASH VICTIMS ARE IMPROVED

The conditions of Dr. and Mrs. O. N. Johnson, 239 E. Washington-st., who were injured in an automobile crash on Highway 57 at Sawyer, near Sturgeon Bay, last week are improving. They are now being treated at the hospital at Appleton from the hospital at Sturgeon Bay last week. Mrs. C. Stradling, a daughter fractured an ankle, and received body lacerations and bruises.

Dr. Johnson fractured the upper and lower jaw, while Mrs. Johnson fractured her hip socket and broke her wrist. Their son, Orlando, escaped with minor bruises and scratches.

bands for British princesses, eventually was won over by Louise's tearful pleadings. Shortly after their marriage in 1889 her husband was made Duke of 2161.

The adventure came in 1911 when traveling with the duke to Egypt aboard the Delhi they were shipwrecked off Cape Spartel, 10 miles from Tangier. The duke died a year later at Assuan as a consequence of exposure during the mishap.

Two children were born of the marriage, Alexandra Victoria, now 39 years old and wife of Prince Arthur of Connaught, and Maud Alexandra, now 37 and the wife of Lord Carnarvon. Both were at their mother's bedside when she died.

The princess was known for her democracy. She often rode in buses when traveling about London, other passengers of the quiet unassuming woman was the eldest sister of their king. She was fond of the theatre and knew many of its folk.

Her title, princess royal, conferred on her by King Edward, presumably will pass to Princess Mary, eldest sister of the Prince of Wales, wife of the Earl of Harewood. Louise's full name was Louise Victoria Alexandra Dagmar.

No definite plans for the funeral have been announced, but was understood the services would take place at the end of this week, probably in St. George's chapel at Windsor, with burial at the royal mausoleum at Frogmore in Windsor.

It was stated on excellent authority that the death of the princess will not result in postponement of the South American visit of the Prince of Wales and Prince George, scheduled to start on their tour Jan. 15.

DEPOSIT BOXES LOOT MAY TOTAL $100,000

Chicago Bank's Own Loss Estimated Between $10,000 and $20,000

Chicago—(P)—The looting of between 20 and 30 safety deposit boxes of the Lawrence Avenue National bank with a loss that may reach $100,000 in cash and negotiable bonds and the apparent theft of between $10,000 and $20,000 of the bank's own funds were revealed today as examiners prepared to push an investigation of the institution's affairs.

The robbery was discovered late yesterday when two vault doors were opened in the presence of federal, county, police and bank officials. The time-locks had been last Thursday to open in 17 hours. John E. Malloy, assistant cashier who told police that four bandits posing as bank examiners, had looted the vaults and kidnapped him last Thursday, told officials that the robbers had forced him to set the time-locks.

A thousand depositors, both men and women, milled around the bank while police used their clubs effectively to keep them in check. Malloy, who was charged with conspiracy to embezzle, following his return from Milwaukee, where he was held in a detective bureau cell, a federal prisoner while the department sought a warrant for his arrest. The first glimpse within the vaults revealed chaos. Ledgers and other books were in disorder and a cursory inspection showed that paper records had been torn out or otherwise mutilated.

SOLIDS MAY BE CARRIED NEXT BY PIPE LINE

Engineers and Technical Men in Midst of Experiments Now

BY J. C. ROYLE

Copyright, 1931, by Post Pub. Co. Washington—Will it pour?

That is the question the engineers and technical men of the steel industry are asking and their interrogation is finding an echo from executives of a score of other businesses. These engineers are conducting extensive experiments into the possibility of moving other than liquids and gasses by pipe line.

The tremendous growth of the demand for natural gas and the growing miles of pipe lines built or projected, has caused industrial leaders to try and adopt the pipe line method of transportation to the solids. There was a decrease of over 65,000,000 tons of coal consumed in the United States last year as compared with 1929. This amount was largely replaced by fuel oil and natural gas. Each carried from producing centers by pipe line.

The tonnage of pipe sold in the last 12 months has been the main sustaining influence in the steel industry. The leaders in steel expect this business to continue and to grow as a result of the oil and gas situation but they see in the future the possibility of developing a volume of demand for tubular goods which will make the natural gas and oil end a minor factor.

Among the first commodities to be experimented with was coal. The future of the coal industry at present is scarcely less black than the fuel itself. Not only is demand on the decrease but there has been developed an infinitely greater efficiency in the burning of coal so that not so much is required.

Less Coal Consumed
In the production of electricity for example the amount of coal consumed per kilowatt hour of current was 1.61 pounds in 1930 as compared with 3.20 pounds ten years before.

Cheap movement of coal may give that lagging industry a new lease of life. This is equally true of wheat and corn or anything which can be poured.

Development of pipe line systems might mean loss of millions of tons of revenue freight by the railroads but the carriers are fully alive to the situation and it will undoubtedly be brought forward as a factor in future railroad regulation consideration and rate decisions.

The movement of package freight and express by pipe line over limited distances is being considered. One engineer took the pneumatic tube systems used by the Post office department as a starting point, and went on from there. Engineers all over the country are dreaming friction problems and suction power. The steel mills are preparing to expand their tubular goods installations. It was this fact, according to some in the business, which was responsible for the bitterness of the fight for and against the acquisition of Youngstown Sheet and Tube, a big maker of tubular goods, by Bethlehem Steel which has just been checked by court decision.

All is not entirely plain sailing with the steel companies. One auto body manufacturer with a big plant caused considerable consternation by taking a sheet of steel, rolling it into a tube and electrically welding the edges, thus producing a pipe declared equal to that turned out by far more expensive processes. What the pipe business can mean may be told from the gas industry alone when it is considered 16,000,000 customers now are being served with two and a half trillion cubic feet a year.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

POSTAL BUSINESS $2,155 GREATER, REPORT INDICATES

Receipts for 1930 Total $175,212, Says Acting Postmaster

Business at the Appleton post office in 1930 exceeded the business of 1929 by $2,155.21, according to a report from William H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster. In 1929 total receipts were $173,056.97, while in 1930 the receipts were $175,212.18.

Mr. Zuehlke said that business was erratic during the year. The early months of 1930 did not produce as much business as in 1929. During the summer and fall business was greater than those seasons of 1929 while in December there was a decrease of almost $1,500 over the same month in 1929.

Receipts for the last quarter of 1930 were $52,719.25 which is $286.30 less than for the last quarter of 1929. Receipts for the quarter were made up as follows: stamp sale, $48,479.32; excess of sale of stamps, $10.36; second class postage, $1,124.39; permit matter, $2,645.88; miscellaneous receipts, $36.40; box rent, $422.40.

Pointed Radiators, More Sombre Hues At Auto Show

New York—(P)—Trends toward pointed radiators, more sombre hues, low bodies of accentuated length and increased speed and pickup for the 1931 auto models were revealed with the opening of the 51st National Automobile show at Grand Central palace.

Of the more than 300 new car and chassis models displayed, 35 of them passenger cars, every one revealed some change in design or mechanical improvement.

Eight cylinder cars led the sixes by a slight margin. Manufacturers said they sought "bodily sturdiness" as well as beauty. Openings to front and back compartments were generally wider.

The swing away from the ultra bright colors of former years was definite with pastel shades of green, black brown and maroon leading in popularity. Wire wheels were in color or chromium.

The manufacturers said increased speed reflected improved roads and long trunk highways which permit speeds up to 65 miles an hour for long distances, while combinations of traffic necessitated quicker pickup. There also was a trend toward larger fuel supply tanks.

Especially addressing the ladies the manufacturers claim their new models are easier to handle under all driving conditions. There will be less fatigue for long distances, they say, and clutches will respond to feather-like pressure.

Adjustable drivers' seats and steering columns made their appearance in many models and spare tires were almost universally transferred from the rear to fender wheels. New manifold designs for better exhaust appear in the eights, twelves and sixes. Use of the double carburetors and down-draft type was more general and manufacturers claimed they had better provision for distribution of the gas mixture to cylinders.

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

EX-GOVERNOR KOHLER

Today marks the exit of Walter Kohler as governor of Wisconsin, with a record of high public service probably second to none of all those who have striven from that chair for legislation, just and fair, to benefit our three millions of people.

The achievements of his administration are outstanding if judged alone by the mere two years allotted as a term of office, but they become the more pronounced when observation is made of the care with which the helping hand was extended to each section of the population in turn.

The people have seen how the governor-elect, Mr. La Follette, has been holding public meetings beginning six weeks before he took the oath of office, and concerning the many and various departments under state control, threshing out with the department heads their needs, discussing and analyzing their problems for the next two years. It has been a preparatory course sufficient in intensive training to bring the newly elected governor to the chair with a much better education concerning the duties and demands of his position than could possibly be obtained otherwise or elsewhere. It was Mr. Kohler who envisioned the law that made this procedure compulsory as part of the Budget System of control of state expenditures, a control that becomes weak and wasteful unless the governor who shapes the policies for the state is given first-hand knowledge of state needs. Mr. Kohler also urged upon the people a constitutional amendment which they adopted at the last election, doing away with bulk appropriations containing a great many items and giving the governor veto power over each item, so as to place not only the responsibility but the control of affairs where it belongs, with the chief executive. Mr. La Follette opposed this amendment, and although he was elected to office, the people, recognizing the wisdom of the Kohler plan, adopted it.

In the interests of agriculture there is the agricultural and marketing board chosen without reference to politics, but with reference to ability, with accomplishments already in the advancement of cooperative marketing, the most direct aid to agriculture the state has known. In the fight against tuberculosis necessitating the killing of cows showing a tubercular reaction the Kohler measure has made the price payable $35.00 for unregistered animals instead of $20.00 and $70.00 for registered animals instead of $45.00.

In the realm of labor, Mr. Kohler occupies the distinction of being the first governor of any state in the country to sign a law prohibiting "yellow dog" contracts, whereby unfair employers sought to chain their employees to an agreement forbidding labor union organizations. There also are the laws authorizing labor unions to arrange for group insurance and compelling the maintenance of full crews on locomotives running on main lines. As time passes under our feet, and it always takes time to prove the worth of a man, the far-reaching benefits of these enactments will become evident.

The people also have to thank Mr. Kohler for legislation permitting old age pensions upon a majority instead of the two-thirds vote; the children's code dealing with the problem, not only of dependents, but of defective youngsters; the business-like creation of a state investment board to care for the vast trust funds of the state which may help to restore confidence in the people in municipally directed projects.

To all the foregoing may be added the fact, and it is an important one, that Mr. Kohler has ever maintained a fair and dignified attitude toward all the people of the state. has never stooped to the petty trade of doing things just for votes, has maintained a high level in the character of his appointments and has left the state immeasurably better for his service.

Any man who may drop the reins of government with such a record has reason to carry his head high.

ENDOWMENTS

Julius Rosenwald has been doing a good work in the publication of articles in magazines and the distribution of pamphlets protesting against many of the conditions that are attached to the expenditures of great sums of money left for philanthropic purposes. But judging from the will of the late Harvey G. Woodworth of Birmingham, Alabama, much more missionary work must be done.

Mr. Woodworth very recently left $7,500,000 for educational purposes but the conditions he attached tend to spoil the entire project. He has provided that the money cannot be used in the endowment of any school within fifteen miles of a town, that foreign languages, interscholastic athletics, fraternities and even examinations shall be barred, and that only native born whites of British ancestry may be helped.

The last provision could easily be overlooked because it is not out of line or improper for a person to limit his aid either to those of his own original nationalistic stock or even those of his own religious belief. So long as the money is used to help someone who needs it what matter it whether the one be Celt or Teuton, Slav or Latin? But the other conditions make the endowment hard of fulfillment and limit materially its otherwise fine scope.

It is a difficult if not an impossible thing to run endowments, as it is to run a business, from the cemetery, or to color them with one's own particular hobbies. Rather better is it to let the future generation which is to be helped pilot its own course by the standards and conditions prevailing at the time.

There is need for Mr. Rosenwald to continue his articles on how best to apply the millions turned over for the help of others.

"CONTINUE THE MARCH"

Men who think and dream are not fearful of the prevailing economic situation. It is only those who are satisfied with what has already been accomplished who look fearfully at the future.

Every period of prosperity in this country has been due in large measure to the growth of industrial giants, such as the development of new types of transportation, new labor saving inventions and new forms of entertainment which in fact are classed as luxuries.

Further industrial progress will be made in the future. New industrial giants will appear again. They may not be clearly defined as yet, as they seldom are until they appear, but they are on the way, ready to absorb surplus labor, create new markets, give birth to new forms of wealth, and in turn stimulate thoughts of other and greater things yet to come.

Half of the population of this country is under twenty-six years of age. It is a young country. Youth always has strength, ambition, vision, the will to dare and the power to accomplish. Products of all kinds are being improved. Luxuries have become necessities. Some of the important things which hold up progress are greed, lack of confidence and unsound thinking.

The dreamer, the thinker, the scientist, the research engineer see plainly enough the marvelous vistas of the future industrial life open to development. Temporary slowups there will be, but the march is ever forward.

Just Folks

THE SUM OF THE YEARS

He lived, loved, laughed and died.
Knew friendships and the trees.
Knew minas and rolling seas.
Paved street and country-side.
Spring with its clean-washed green,
Summer with flowers bloom,
Autumn's gay colored scene
And winter's dirge of doom.

Some joys escaped his net.
Some griefs he also missed;
Life runs so long a list
None all it holds can get.
But blent within the care
And all the hurt and woe
Was many a memory fair
That he had smiled to know.

When the long journey ends,
Out of the loss and gain,
A few joys remain:
Pride, honor, beauty, friends.
Love that has stayed the same
When trails found the door.
What matters wealth or fame?
Life gives to time no more.

HOW TO FEED YOUNG AMERICA EFFECTIVELY

By Uncle Art

Part III

After bottle is ready, pick baby up from his bed and slowly move bottle back and forth before his eyes. If he has been disturbed by this time that he has closed his eyes in order to cry loud, he will likely see the bottle and lunge eagerly for it. Allow only the top-end of the bottle to enter baby's mouth. He may have indigestion if he swallows the whole bottle. Remove bottle from Young America's oral opening occasionally since he may be too busy eating to breathe. Being completely out of breath is bad, for him.

Today's Anniversary

DECATUR'S BIRTH
On Jan. 5, 1779, Stephen Decatur, U. S. naval officer, distinguished for his services against Tripoli, was born in Sinepuxent, Mr. He entered the navy as a midshipman when he was 19. Six years later he led a small party which burned the harbor of Tripoli, the American frigate Philadelphia, after it had fallen into the hands of the Tripolitans. For this exploit, which Admiral Nelson pronounced "the most daring of the age," he was raised to the rank of captain. In 1812 he was in command, as commodore, of a squadron off the Atlantic coast and on Oct. 25, he captured the English frigate Macedonian. Decatur later was sent to operate against Algiers. He captured two important vessels and helped end the enslavement of Americans by pirates of Algiers, Tunis and Tripoli. He was killed March 22, 1820, in a duel with Commodore James Barron.

X-RAY TREATMENT CURES FIBROID TUMOR.

About a year ago, perhaps longer, I wrote you, reports a southern woman, asking your advice concerning fibroid tumor from which I was suffering at the time. You sent me a letter in which you stated that an operation was the only cure, you wrote on the margin that some fibroid tumors could be successfully treated with X-rays.

Yes, the copy of the letter I sent the lady was prepared several years ago, and since I prepared that letter X-ray treatment has become, if not the method of choice, then at least a satisfactory method of treatment for fibroid tumor of the uterus in some cases. Everything else I say in the letter on the subject of tumors and displacements, still holds good, so I am still telling "em operation is the only cure for fibroid tumor," but X-ray treatment is a cure in quite a number of cases. I believe X-ray treatment is now quite generally used in uncomplicated fibroid tumor cases where there is no serious objection to its sterilizing effect on the patient. Now let the lady go on with her story:

Well, I grasped at the straw and went at once to a specialist in X-ray work. Today, according to my doctor's statement, after a final examination, I have not the slightest trace of fibroid tumor. Oh, how I thank you and the wonderful scientific research that has made such a cure possible.

Let us pause here a moment, friends, to consider that last remark. The lady is quite right—it was scientific research, and medical experimentation on animals, that made the cure possible. In these days when scientific experimentation can get space in a crowd magazine or elsewhere to publish and circulate indiscriminately the most vicious slanders about vivisection, medical research or experimentation, it is really refreshing to hear a beneficiary of medical research and animal experimentation acknowledge indebtedness.

But the lady did not write merely to express her thanks. Not at all. That would scarcely be human. Her gratitude to medical research and scientific experimentation is just incidental, something like the telephone girl's "Excuse me, please," when she gets her signals crossed. The lady has an entirely different tale of woe to tell, and she is now seeking a remedy or advice about what she fears is a cancer development on her cheek—a small pimple that has been there for several years and lately seems to be enlarging a little and becoming irritated. . . and she begs me to "throw out the lifeline" for her again.

Anybody with any such suspicious little wart, papule, pimple or prolonged sore that seems to grow worse after several years, should have the lesion clearly excised and the scar treated with X-ray, or, if the doctor deems it safe, just some X-ray treatments, on the off chance that it is epithelioma (skin cancer) in the incipient stage.

That is the best advice I can give. That is what I should do about any little lesion like that if I were the patient.

For the benefit of those uninformed, I might say that fibroid tumor, so common in mature women, particularly unmarried women, is in no way similar to or related to cancer.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

What Color Is Original?
I am 44 years of age and my hair is turning gray. Please tell me of something safe to use to bring back the original color? (H. K.)

Answer—I suppose a good mathematician, with the aid of logarithms, could determine the color of your hair from your data, but I never got beyond geometry, and I pass it up. I cannot recommend hair dyes or blacking, but I can recommend that persons with black or dark brown hair turning gray try the I and T hair cream—the hair every day with a solution of copperas (iron sulphate) a teaspoonful or less, in a pint of common black tea (dandelion tea). This is harmless, and many who have adopted it say it is quite satisfactory.

Chance For Young Saps To Save $31.85.

I have been cheated out of $31.85 by one of these charlatans who style themselves teachers or professors of physical culture. I found gross discrepancies between the promises in their advertisements and the merchandise and the effects I obtained. . . What steps I should pursue to bring this man's activities to the attention of the legal authorities. . . (W. R.)

Answer—I doubt you can get any satisfaction, son, if you've handed over your money. Our government winks at such frauds—may, cater to just such business by transporting the bait at something less than cost. You were just a sucker. Put it down as the price you pay for education. You will know better next time. For the benefit of other gullible ones I might say that if a healer is good his satisfied patients or patrons give him plenty of advertising, so that he doesn't have to spend a large portion of his income to catch new customers. Possibly the Better Business Bureau in your city would help you get satisfaction from the faker.

I am 18 years old, 5 feet tall and weigh only 80 pounds. Could you please tell me how I could gain weight? (Mrs. R.)

Answer—if you is a good up-to-date doctor perhaps he will give you insulin treatment, and that will help you put on some flesh. If he is an old fossil, don't ask him about it. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and I will give you some suggestions to help gain weight. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE Tynmites were very thrilled. They'd never seen a lion killed and now they all were hiding in the native hunter's blind. Said Clowry, "This may be all right, but still I think we're in a plight. To watch our new friend kill a lion isn't very kind."

The hunter laughed. "My son," said he, "it's quite all right, as you shall see. If I don't kill the lion first he may attack this bunch. If one walks into open space, I'll have to give the beast a chase. But I'll spear instead of shoot. That is a better hunt."

"And there is more thrill to it, too. You'll all know that when I am through. For now, though, please keep quiet so we do not scare my prey. Just stay right here where you belong. The wait, of course, may be quite long. Why, I have known of hunters who have waited around all day."

So, everything was still once more. Then, suddenly, they heard a roar. "Ah, ha! A lion's coming," said the friendly hunter man. "I hope we don't give it a scare. My spear will soon sail through the air. Here's where you all see quite a show. I'll do the best I can."

The lion jumped out, right nearby. Each of the Tynmites heard a sigh. And then the hunter stepped out quick. With aim that they thought rare, he tossed a spear right at the beast. The great excitement was increased! The lion jumped, and then his roar just seemed to fill the air.

Fear Clowry turned his head away and whispered, "All that I can say is that I cannot watch this stunt. It's much too much for me. I fear the lion's going to die and just because I sauntered by. If it is killed, I'll flunkily give it all my sympathy!"

(We'll find out what happened to the lion in the next story.) (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—A question asked often by visitors to the congressional galleries at the capitol is:

"How do these men who go to each other with such verbal bitterness on the floor of the senate or house act when they meet face to face later?"

The answer is easy. Rarely, if ever, are harsh words, uttered in the heat of debate remembered for very long.

As an example, take the Nye-Davis incident at the beginning of the present session. Senator Nye apparently did his dead-level best to keep President Hoover's former cabinet member from taking his seat.

Yet, after the senate voted to seat him, Nye was the first senator to grasp him by the hand and utter a word of congratulation. Take Watson and Harrison as a further illustration. When it comes to raving each other, these two are hard to beat. But watch them after it's all over.

It's a pretty safe bet you'll encounter them later strolling arm in arm down the corridor laughing and joshing each other like two long-lost brothers.

Looks Like a Fight

Garner and Longworth are the same. The minority leader of the house apparently is never so happy as when he can take the speaker "for a ride." And he is merciless at times on these trips. Yet there are no greater cronies on the hill than these two.

The same thing is true with Tilson, republican floor leader of the house, and Garner.

During the day, if the session is a particularly heated one to the casual observer it would appear one would lie in wait for the other in some dark corner of the capitol and a slugfest would be the only way out. But it's far from anything like this. The chances are if you tried to find Tilson and Garner after hours, you would run into them both seated in the office of Longworth having a whale of a good time.

And perhaps with the three would be Bertrand Snell, chairman of the powerful house rules committee, and the third of the three house republican musketeers—Longworth, Tilson and Snell.

They're Friends

Scenes such as these are daily occurrences on the hill. In both houses it is as much the same—those savage in their attacks are perhaps the best of friends. Or at least, they are the first to extend the hand of fellowship off stage.

In this connection, there is a story one hears around the capitol which has almost become a tradition. When President Wilson journeyed to the capitol to deliver that memorable address to the senate on the peace treaty with Germany, he found himself later in the presence

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—It wouldn't be New York without:

The cashiers in the automatons who for hours on end throw out nickels to customers from a fistful of coins and always toss exactly five at a throw, no more and no less.

Also the subway change makers who are just as dexterous at the rush hours, when a pushing line forms at either side of their windows.

Puppet shows for kids during the Christmas holidays.

Garbage collectors hurling ash cans to the sidewalks from the top of enormous trucks, with a great big bang.

Elsa Maxwell's annual party.

Hostess To Dukes

Miss Maxwell, a real leader in society on both sides of the Atlantic, gives one New York party each year in honor of some personage. These festivities have come to be known as among the few humorous social affairs in town.

Highly original, they attract a guests list that reads like a one-night who's who of Park avenue and Broadway. For Miss Maxwell is a resourceful hostess, a sort of Texas Gorman of high society.

It is said of Elsa Maxwell that her presence, in a place is enough to assure it popularity with the people who matter. She is credited with much of the exploitation of Lido, France, where she arranged gay beach parties, and she is reported to have been invited by the lords of Monte Carlo casino to spend $8,000,000 in remodeling that resort.

The titled aristocrats of Europe are her friends.

Her recent party here was for Cole Porter, the time composer, who also lives in Paris much of each year. It was a "come-as-you-are" costume ball and the hostess appeared as President Hoover. She herself was represented by Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt. Cole Porter appeared as a football player of the nineties and Mrs. Porter came as a housemaid.

Ina Claire, the actress, and her escort came as Bishop Manning and formed Judge Lindsey, Adele Astaire as an angel, Lady Ribblesdale as Charlie Chaplin, Charles Hanson as a maharajah, Princess Hohenlohe-Schillinghorst as a nun, William May Wright as an artist. His wife, Cobina Wright, the concert soprano, whose parties also are distinguished events, impersonated a clergyman and Mrs. "T.H." Widener Holden a bell boy.

Incidentally, Porter, whose newest hit is "Where Have You Been," from "The New Yorkers" revue, began composing when he was a student at Yale. One of his first ditties had these now-forgotten lines, "I've gotten so very, very rotten, I put the poison in my mother's cream of what."

Ethical.

Even over here Miss Maxwell's name is a potent lure for trade.

She is stopping at a fashionable Fifth avenue hotel as still at sea, but after she had made the reservation, the proprietor of another and newer inn catering to those who read the society columns wireless an invitation to her to stay at his place without charge.

To Elsa Maxwell's credit, in these days of endorsements, she preferred to pay.

Barbs

Jim Lucey, oobler friend of Cal Coolidge, received from him a box of gold pieces for Christmas. Probably in recognition of the advice he gave the former president as to what silence was.

Maybe those schoolboys in Mississippi found playing marbles with gold nuggets could answer the popular query, "What's all the shooting for?"

of his arch-enemy, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts.

And it is said that during the time these two chatted, they confined their remarks chiefly to the acoustics of the senate chamber.

You've never purchased better hosiery at 75c and some men wonder if we haven't made a mistake when they are marked 2 pairs $1.00. It's just one example of what's happening all over the store.

Griesbach applied the brakes, and the car skidded to the other side of the road, colliding with a touring car containing Edgar Anger, P. Heintz, and John Barnowski of Oshkosh, which was going north. In the mix-up the smaller car collided with a coupe owned by Everett Mason, which was parked near the Commercial filling station.

Thank You Letters Due This Week

BY ANGELO PATRI-THANK YOU!

Have all the thank you letters been sent out? This is the week to send them. Of course, if they went out the morning after Christmas, so much the better. But if one has been overlooked this is the time. It would be altogether too bad to accept a kindness and send no word of thanks to the giver.

No, telephone messages will not do for the children. When their grandmother or aunt or uncle went out to find the right gift for the child it cost a great effort. Going to the store, hunting for the right thing, waiting for it to be delivered, re-packing it and shipping it so it might arrive at the right time on the right day, meant something in time and effort and loving attention. All that is worth a thank you.

The act of writing a letter of thanks is a healthy one. It centers the mind of the child on the person who sent the gift. It makes him thoughtful about those who have been thoughtful for him. It makes him conscious of the friendliness and affection that surround him. That in itself is worth while. Children are not conscious of those about them. They have no appreciation of the value of the love and attentions that make their lives joyful. It will help to make them appreciate their friends if they write a little note of thanks now and then.

Of course, it is a task. No child likes to write such a note. You have to help. You have to suggest what is to be said if you are asked to do so. If your opinion is asked about the wording of a sentence, you give it helpfully. You act as dictionary and book of etiquette and supervisor, general. Otherwise the letters cannot get themselves written.

To help to make a supply note paper for these letters. A child is inspired by pretty paper. It is best to make a rough copy first. Lead pencil and double-faced paper make this easy. The copy in ink comes after the rough copy has been corrected. There is no need to rewrite the copy as copy. It is sufficient to copy it after correction. If a blot does fall, and if it is at all possible to take it up and clean the page, do so. Writing the thank you letter again and again is the spirit of the thing and destroys the thank you idea altogether.

If a word is spelled wrong, be discreet and overlook it. You know that the child is not letter perfect and a perfect product would be artificial and inappropriate. The choicest of my thank you letters is a fearful scrawl that takes up a large sheet of letter paper with: Der Angelo, Thanks for the dog. I like him very much. Your friend Pete. (and not having a word of that grace changed. Half script, half in print. It's the best my small friend could do under the handicap of extreme youth. To me it is perfect.)

Help the children return thanks in fine letter form, but let the quality be that of their own affectionate gratitude rather than the letter-proof form of the handbook. The letter is the thing. No honorable child would accept a gift without the thanks that go with it. Helping him to express his gratitude in a few words and send him out to mail it himself. All this is by way of his education. (Copyright, 1931, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington, New York Are Busy On New Year Holiday

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS (Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor)

Washington—Happy, happy New Year! New Year's Day is such a nice holiday, coming at the last minute. Just as the Christmas holidays seem over, to start the fun again. It even starts time again.

When there is time, there must always be things to fill and fill it. And oh, how Washington used its New Year's week!

The great affair of the week was, of course, the annual White House New Year's Day reception, beginning with the official and the great and extending on to any citizen who wished to call on his President and First Lady. From the line, winding out and about through the White House grounds, a good many wanted to say, "How do you do," and "Happy New Year."

Closely following the reception, at least the official part of it which took place in the morning, was the noon-breakfast for the diplomatic corps given at the beautiful Pan American Union by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

Rep. and Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper of Racine and Rep. and Mrs. Edward E. Browne of Waupaca, were among those calling on the President and Mrs. Hoover and then hurrying over "the back way" to the colorful breakfast.

Return To Wisconsin Senator and Mrs. Robert M. La Follette Jr. and Senator John J. Blaine all departed the National Capital last week for the capital of Wisconsin, where they will attend the inauguration of Philip F. La Follette as Governor of Wisconsin.

Sen. and Mrs. La Follette left Washington Wednesday for New York and made a short visit with Mrs. La Follette's sister there before going on to Madison. They planned to arrive in Madison Saturday or Sunday.

Senator Blaine left Washington the end of the week, going directly to Wisconsin. Senator and Mrs. Blaine returned Sunday from a motor trip through the South. They had an enjoyable time but were surprised by all the southern snow.

Around the world! "Ceylon," just forty miles from Heaven... Colombo... little sails of catamarans glowing red in the setting sun... vivid Eastern pageants... gorgeously panoplied elephants swaying down sun-flecked roads... Japan and its cherry blossoms... Italy, France, Spain, Switzerland and on and on... The travel books tell it better than I could... all this glory and adventure that is coming to young Janet Esch, formerly of Sparta and LaCrosse.

Miss Esch spent more than a month ago with friends to make a part of their world cruise with them, but having tasted the excitement of

Thank You Letters Due This Week

BY ANGELO PATRI
THANK YOU?

Have all the thank you letters been sent out? This is the week to send them. Of course, if they went out the morning after Christmas, so much the better. But if one has been overlooked this is the time. It would be altogether too bad to accept a kindness and send no word of thanks to the giver.

No, telephone messages will not do for the children. When their grandmother or aunt or uncle went out to find the right gift for the child it cast a great effort. Going to the store, hunting for the right thing, waiting for it to be delivered, repacking it and shipping it so it might arrive at the right time on the right day, meant something in time and effort and loving attention. All that is worth a thank you.

The act of writing a letter of thanks is a healthy one. It centers the mind of the child on the person who sent the gift. It makes him thoughtful about those who have been thoughtful for him. It makes him conscious of the friendliness and affection that surround him. Children are not conscious of those about them. They have no appreciation of the value of the love and attentions that make their lives joyful. It will help to make them appreciate their friends if they write a little note of thanks now and then.

Of course, it is a task. No child likes to write such a note. You have to help. You have to suggest what to say. You have to ask about the wording of a sentence, you give it helpfully. You act as dictionary and book of etiquette and supervisor-general. Otherwise the letters cannot get themselves written.

It helps if you supply pretty note paper for these letters. A child is inspired by pretty paper. It is best to make a rough copy first. Lead pencil and dough-faced paper make this easy. The copy in ink comes after the rough copy has been corrected. There is no need to rewrite the copy. It is sufficient to copy it after correction. If a blot does fall, and if it is at all possible to take it up and clean the page, do so. Writing the thank you letter again and again will kill the spirit of the thing and destroys the thank you idea altogether.

If a word is spelled wrong, be discreet and overlook it. You know that the child is not letter perfect and a perfect product would be artificial and inappropriate. The choice of many thank you letters is a fearful scrawl that takes up a large sheet of letter paper with Dr. Angelo. Thanks for the dog. I like him very much. Yorr friend Pete. I would not have a word of that grace changed. Half script, half in print, it is the best my small friend could do under the handicap of extreme youth. To me it is perfect.

Help the children return thanks in the right form, but let the quality be that of their own affectionate gratitude rather than the letter-proof form of the handbook. The letter is the thing. No honorable child would accept a gift without the thanks that go with the receiving. Help him to express his gratitude in a few words and send him out to mail it himself. All this is by way of his education. (Copyright, 1931, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Washington, New York Are Busy On New Year Holiday

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS
(Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor)

Washington—Happy, happy New Year! New Year's Day is such a nice holiday, coming at the last minute, just as the Christmas holidays seem over, to start the fun again. It even starts time again.

When there is time, there must always be things to fill and to kill it. And, oh, how Washington used its New Year's week!

The great affair of the week was, of course, the annual White House New Year's Day reception, beginning with the official and the great, and extending on to any citizen who wished to call on his President and First Lady. From the line, winding out and about through the White House grounds, a good many wanted to say, "How do you do," and "Happy New Year."

Closely following the reception, at least the official part of which took place in the morning, was the noon-breakfast for the diplomatic corps given at the beautiful Pan-American Union by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

Rep. and Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper of Racine and Rep. and Mrs. Edward E. Browne of Waupaca, were among those calling on the President and Mrs. Hoover and then hurrying over "back way" to the colorful breakfast.

Return to Wisconsin
Senator and Mrs. Robert M. La Follette Jr. and Senator John J. Blaine all deserted the National Capital last week for the capital of Wisconsin, where they will attend the inauguration of Philip F. La Follette as Governor of Wisconsin.

Sen. and Mrs. La Follette left Washington Wednesday for New York and made a short visit with Mrs. La Follette's sister there before going on to Madison. They planned to arrive in Madison Saturday or Sunday.

Senator Blaine left Washington the end of the week, going directly to Wisconsin. Senator and Mrs. Blaine returned Sunday from a motor trip through the South. They had an enjoyable time but were surprised by all the southern snow.

MARRIAGE LICENSES
A marriage license was issued Monday morning by John E. Hantschl, county clerk, to Franklin Samson, route 1, Shiocton; and Magdalene Weber, Sugar Bush.

Fire destroyed an all-steel house in Glasgow, Scotland, recently, and consumed everything owned by Mr. McInnes and his bride of a month.

It all and having seen France and Africa, she has decided to make the entire trip. It will take almost six months.

She is the daughter of George Egan, formerly of Sparla, and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Esch, formerly of LaCrosse.

Badgers At Luncheon
A number of Wisconsin people, Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper of Racine, Mrs. James A. Frear, wife of Rep. Frear of Hudson; Mrs. John M. Nelson, wife of Rep. Nelson of Madison; and Mrs. John C. Schafer, wife of Rep. Schafer of Milwaukee, were among the guests at the luncheon given Monday by Mrs. Pedro C. G. Gassner, Club Monday, taking three guests with them. They were also guests at a delightful Sunday evening supper given by Commander Jones of the Coast Guard and Mrs. Jones in honor of their daughter, Madeline.

Mrs. Schafer and Mrs. Homer Hoch, wife of the Congressman from Kansas, assisted at the supper.

MOTOR STOCKS FAVORED TODAY ON WALL STREET

Automobile Shares Acknowledged to Have Been Liquidated

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Wall Street, New York (CPA)—Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press
Wall Street expects another bull market—sometimes. After the experience of 1929 and 1930, even the holdfast of speculative optimism is hesitant in fixing the date for the upward movement in stocks. It seems to be generally agreed that recovery when it comes will be gradual, subject to interruptions and lacking the spectacular features which marked the security inflation that culminated in the autumn of 1929.

Meanwhile, however, there is animated discussion as to the group or groups which will be the leaders when the turn comes. For the moment it is the motor stocks that are in the greatest favor. Partly this is because this is the beginning of the show season and, as spring approaches, expansion of motor sales is the normal development. But that is not all.

It is acknowledged that the automobile shares have been thoroughly liquidated. They were not prominent in the last stages of the speculative mania, a year ago and now, with most of the units in the industry in the strongest of financial positions—sometimes with their shares selling in the open market for net assets, allowing nothing for property values—and with the executive heads of the trade expressing confidence in striking contrast to the attitude of the railroad presidents, it is not surprising that traders look with favor on motor stocks.

Utilities Not Sought
The situation with regard to the utilities is quite different. The utilities were scandalously overvalued during the long market advance. They sold 20, 30, 40 and more times earnings per share. The price was too high to pay in those days; but now sentiment has gone to the other extreme and one can find few to recommend the light and power stocks for the first place on the predicted recovery. This attitude is illogical insofar as it is a fact that no trade or industry has been so little affected as that even at their present low prices the prevailing dividend rates is low, the record shows that over a period of years this low return is compensated for by the value of rights to subscribe new capital.

Opinion on the railroad outlook is much mixed. On the one hand it is hard to arouse enthusiasm for details in the face of continually decreasing car loadings and falling gross and net income. On the other side the argument on a consolidation plan for the eastern seaboard is the most constructive piece of news the street has had in months.

Banks Like Rails
In the background is the threat of competition from other forms of transportation, a threat magnified by the railroad heads in their own public statements and one which has seized upon the imagination of traders. It is fair to say that the banking view is more favorable to railroad stocks than is that of the public.

Among the minor subdivisions the specialty funds are in high favor. In their behalf it is said that low commodity prices mean larger profits, enough to make up for lower bulk sales. The better grade of copper metal there is reason to hope for stabilization and the low cost, producers are expected to have a reasonably satisfactory year. There is much skepticism as to the amusement shares, not on the ground of unfavorable financial statements so much as because of the fireworks in some of these issues last year, which made an unpleasant impression.

Majority sentiment is against the oils. The difficulties of over-production are so great as to discourage speculation in the stocks. Traders and oil authorities agree on this point. The only dissenters are the small outside investors who have been taking the better grade of oil stocks out of the market for a long time. It is not impossible that the small investors are right and that the speculators and the oil leaders are wrong. That has happened before in market history.

All buildings in the United States have a value of approximately $141,000,000,000. Chicago heating engineers have estimated.

The Story of Sue

HARRY had called Corinne. "Corinne, Clifford's in town and I've asked him to stay with us? Do you mind? He came last night and he's been at home but Nancy hasn't much love for the prodigal."

"I didn't think you had, either," Corinne came back. "I hate . . . him."

"Well, I'm not going to stand in the square and sing his virtues." "It would be a short song," Corinne interrupted.

Harry laughed a little and Corinne softened, as he went on. After all, the Beckers had gone ball for her father and Clifford was Harry's cousin, much as she disliked him.

"He's suspended and it will take a week or so to fix things up for him. He was just in. He's having lunch with Sybil Lester."

"Sybil!" Corinne almost dropped the telephone. "Does he know her?"

"Of course. He's visited us often, and they've done the dine-and-dance act together frequently. He went into the bank to get a check cashed after hours when he blew in yesterday afternoon and signed her up."

"But I just told him I hated him and never wanted him to come near on account of his remarks . . ."

Corinne hesitated.

"So he said, but he doesn't mind. He's anxious to come."

Corinne hung up the receiver but she sat looking at it for a minute.

"If he wants to stay, knowing that I hate him as much as I do, it's because he has a purpose. Well, the plot thickens. I guess I'll get dressed and help it along."

Corinne chose a rust colored woolen frock that had matching kid slippers and a soft hat in the same shade of felt. Over it she slipped a big raccoon coat and then she ordered her car. She stepped on the gas and felt the wind and the road singing past as she hurried.

"So Clifford wants to stay at our house. Humph! Then he wants to get in for no good reason!"

The car went faster.

"He wants to find out something or plant something. This isn't any thing that he can possibly find out. Therefore, he wants to help fix the scene for . . . what? It was something worse than fate that threw him in with Sybil. The gods work well for that young lady. I just missed that car . . ."

Faster and faster now the car hurried on. "If it is just luck that is doing all this it's a queer kind of luck. Oh well . . ."

She came home late in the afternoon. She had left her mother, smiling but a little fearful. Her father, sitting sedately by the fireplace, Sue trying to sparkle and failing miserably. She hadn't wanted to leave. This was her family. It needed her. But she had to go back and be a . . . Becker. She hoped Clifford would not be around. She wondered why she hated him.

She had carefully slipped out of her coat when another car turned in at the drive, a small, unpretentious car. For a second her heart missed a beat. Bob! She didn't know she said his name out loud. But it wasn't the tall high school senior. It was Max Gordon of the high school faculty.

"Oh good land! She pulled a curl over her cheek. "But he's comforting and makes me feel important . . . only this afternoon I want to cry."

WE WOMEN

By Betty Brainerd

SOUR GRAPES

Time is kind to most people. The modern world holds a halo above the heads of the ancient Greek philosophers and tragedians. In the march of events half-truths uttered by the ancient Greeks are accepted as whole truths.

"A woman," said Euripides. "Should be good for everything at home, but abroad good for nothing."

I have a very warm and friendly feeling for Euripides. He was married to a notorious shrew. If he had regarded all women critically and cynically he, perhaps, would have been justified. But Euripides had a marvelous sense of humor. When his wife Xantippe deluged him with a bucket of water he smiled and said after the thunder rain almost always follows. Neither did Euripides say that Xantippe was to be regarded as a representative or typical woman.

Euripides, on the other hand, was not married to a Xantippe. He had no reason to regard all women scornfully. Yet he seems to have been the author of the theory that woman's place is in the home.

If Euripides had had his way we women never would have been emancipated politically. He was not what one might call broad-minded. According to his way of thinking, women were useful only for domestic purposes—or should be. Outside the home—or abroad—we women were "good for nothing."

Euripides was the author of a few tragedies, for which the ancient Greeks had a genius. It may be that he looked at women through clouded spectacles.

Women couldn't have been as useless outside their homes as he tried to make them appear. Moreover a brilliant tragedian wouldn't say anything so silly today.

If he did it would be a tragedy!

Women's clubs and associations, and women writers would heckle and denounce Euripides today. His plays would be boycotted. I doubt very much if even a philosophical tragedian could stand up under such a strain.

It is unfortunate that men such as Euripides, who have spoken to such large audiences, have spoken so loudly. Some of the observations of our ancient critics are going through new editions today and will go through more editions in the future. It would have been better if they had whispered—or better still

BEAUTY MASKS TO SOOTHE THE SENSITIVE SKIN

BY ALICIA HART

SENSITIVE skin should be humored. There are beauty lotions of all descriptions concocted with just such a skin in mind.

For instance, if you want to mask your beauty for a half hour, you can select certain packs that are excellent for the sensitive skin.

If you want to make your own face masks, I can suggest at least two which are bland but efficacious. First of all, so far as soothing qualities go, the mask made of barley flour and rose water is one of the finest. Use an even half cup of the barley flour and moisten it with enough rose water to form a good thick paste. After cleaning and creaming your face, wipe off the superfluous cream and apply this paste, all over the face and neck.

Let it harden, which usually takes at least half an hour. If possible, rest while it hardens, for the relaxing you do in the process of wearing a mask is very important, as I have said before.

To remove this mask, use your favorite lotion, dipping cotton into it. Apply a mild astringent when your face is clear once more.

Another good homemade mask for sensitive skins is made by mixing bran, honey and milk. The efficacy of honey is known to all beauticians. Used with bran it makes a wonderfully soft, bleaching mask. The milk is a true astringent, as such beauties as the late Lillian Russell learned long ago.

The honey mask, as this is called, is made by using a scant half cup of bran, three tablespoons of milk and enough honey to make a thin paste of it.

It must be moist enough to spread easily but not so thin that it runs off the face and neck.

off the face and neck. The honey will help it to stick. There are various kinds of honey you can use for this, clover honey, orange blossom honey, alfalfa honey. The less expensive brands have quite as much beauty-power as the expensive ones.

If this mixture does not have the fragrance that you like, you may add a few drops of toilet water. But it is mighty pleasing to feel on the face without any additions but the regular ingredients.

Leave this mask on from 20 minutes until a half hour. It is a wonderful pick-me-up for the face with sensitive skin. To remove it, use a strip of gauze or a piece of old linen dipped in your favorite toilet water or cool clear water. Dash astringent on your face before putting on your powder base.

When the sun is shining on your veranda wring your mop out dry and commence on the lower step and go backward so as not to leave footprints. If you do that every morning you will be surprised how beautifully shiny your veranda floor will keep.

To prevent fruit from settling at the bottom of cake, always pour boiling water over the fruit, squeeze it dry with the hand and roll in flour.

YOUR QUESTION And Its Answer

J.A. Panneck, D.C.

Palmer Chiropractor

QUESTION: I am a woman thirty years of age. I am working in an office down town. I had the la grippe or flu last fall and it left me in a rundown condition. Will adjustments help me?—P. R. A.

ANSWER: More years ago than anyone can count, Mother Nature received her laws of life and the authority, within those laws, to grow, to multiply and to heal.

Man has observed that Nature allows a beginning and an end—summer and winter, day and night, birth and death.

Man has observed also, that within this normal span of life Nature does everything possible to protect it.

It is only a few years since we first realized that fever is only Nature's tonic to burn up poisons in the system, that swellings are caused by sudden crowds of tiny workers sent by Nature to repair an injury, that pain is only Nature's way of warning us that all is not well within that wonderful organization we call the human body.

It is the fundamental of Chiropractic Philosophy which teaches that the body is governed by the flow of impulses to and from the brain through the nervous system, that so long as there is freedom of communication, the intelligent vital principle within the brain maintains and protects normal life—that when these vital impulses are restricted or modified by pressure or interference, abnormal conditions are then created, functions become deranged and disease is the result. If the point of interference is located and relieved before the damage is irreparable, nature, and nature only, can accomplish its own healing work.

QUESTION: What is this instrument you are using in your practice that patients say is so wonderful?—H. J. S.

ANSWER: This instrument is called the Neurocalometer. It locates for us the impinged nerve, and then by our check reading after the adjustment is given, it proves to us whether or not the adjustment was given scientifically and correctly. It leads us straight to the back, to the location of the impinged nerve, to the adjustment of the proper vertebrae and to the release of the impingement; it proves the science of chiropractic to be correct.

NEW LONDON PUCK TEAM WINS AGAIN

Defeats Waupaca 7 to 6 After Two Overtime Periods

New London — Waupaca hockey fans were treated to a real game Sunday afternoon when the New London city team, playing the Waupaca pucksters, was forced to two overtime periods to win by a 7-6 count.

The first period ended 1 to 1. New London hit the net for two points in the middle period, while Percy Holverson kept the puck out of New London's net. In the last period of play McLaughlin of Waupaca broke through the defense and the third period ended with five points credited to each team.

In the first overtime period Sweedy snared the puck in back of Waupaca's net, and placed a side shot through for a goal. Just before the period ended Waupaca put on a burst of speed and managed to pepper a shot through Holverson.

In the second overtime match Ross went past the county seater's defense only to miss a shot. Edminister, who had helped work the rubber down, sent through a sizzler to break up the game.

Holverson, playing as goaler had a great day stopping Waupaca's bombardment. Several shots with score labels attached were smeared up by him. Edminister led the scoring with three points, followed by Sweedy with two. Ross and Dexter split one apiece, while McLaughlin led the Waupaca sextet New London's starting lineup included Sweedy and Edminister, wings; Ross, center; Dexter and Johnson; and Holverson, goalie.

Thus far the team has won two and lost one game. A return engagement is booked with the Fremont squad Jan. 13. Next Sunday is open and the local team will practise. Sunday's game was played on a flooded tennis court on the outskirts of Waupaca. Bounding boards were in position, the ice was perfect and a good crowd witnessed the play. There were few out of bound plays, and the game throughout was speedy.

EVERY DAY WORTH LIVING

There is no illness so oppressive as an imperfectly functioning stomach — perhaps not serious enough in many cases to be confining, still severe enough to prevent the fullest enjoyment of every day life and the pleasure of performing one's daily duties. For those persons who have habitual or occasional stomach trouble, such as gastric hyperacidity, sour stomach, gas, distention, bloating, belching, heartburn, bad breath, flatulency, loss of appetite, we unhesitatingly say "Try Pinder's Tablets." To our personal knowledge, this remedy has relieved and corrected hundreds of such cases of stomach trouble, many of which were of a long standing nature. We shall be glad to give further information, and of course, without obligation, Voigt's Drug Store, Exclusive Agent in Appleton and vicinity.

NABS SHIPMENT OF LIQUORS AT FREIGHT HOUSE

100 Quarts of Gin, Brandy, Whisky Seized by Federal Man

New London — A consignment of French and English liquors consisting of 100 quarts of creme de menthe, gin, brandy and whiskey wasted its fragrance on practically desert air Saturday when C. E. Smith, Chicago, federal agent, seized it in the freight house of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad in this city. The shipment had scarcely reached the city when the agent arrived.

Investigation showed it had been shipped from Miami, Fla., to the Central Telephone company. There is no company of that address in the city. The boxes were classified as telephone supplies. Mr. Smith made investigations at the local post office inquiring as to the identity of persons connected with the address. Finding no clue there remained nothing more than the formality of pulling the stoppers of the bottles containing, so Mr. Smith stated, some of the highest priced liquor he had ever seized.

The officer stated that the Chicago office had been tipped off regarding the shipment some time before it was consigned out of the Miami freight office. The liquor had been allowed to come through in the hope that the identity of buyers might be made. This is the second shipment out of Florida to New London which has been seized by federal officers.

A MARRIAGE OF CONVENIENCE

THIS modern romance has its inception in the Canned Music Promoter's conviction that he could love anything that would reduce his overhead expense.

You see, if theatre patrons can just be persuaded to accept less than their money's worth in the theatre, this happy couple can prolong their cacophonous honeymoon.

But the music-loving public has failed to bless these nuptials as expected. The Music Defense League is voicing a voluminous protest against the substitution of Canned Music for Living Music in the Theatre. You may add your influence to this great movement by signing and mailing the coupon.

Post-Crescent Again Sponsors District Skating Tournament

FIRST WARD RINK PICKED AS SCENE OF ANNUAL MEET

Sunday, Feb. 1 is Tentatively Set as Date; Award Medals as Prizes

FOR the ninth successive year the Appleton Post-Crescent will sponsor a skating tournament for all Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, New London, Kaukauna, Little Chute, and Kimberly skaters in other words all skaters in the Post-Crescent circulation area. The tournament was started nine years ago and has drawn large crowds of skaters from this district every year.

No definite date for the tournament is being set with this announcement. Plans were to have the tournament on Jan. 18 and if weather conditions make it possible. However, under present conditions indications are that the tournament will be scheduled for Feb. 1, a comparatively late date in the season yet one which promises to give skaters a better chance to prepare for it.

For the last six weeks or more there has been little skating. The youngsters of course can find room to skate but older persons have been handicapped by lack of good, fast ice. Practically all rinks in the city are being used but most of them are small and few have had good ice.

Tournament plans this year are to have the meet at the First Ward rink. Jones park rink has been shortened because of the Lawrence's fill and probably will not be used at all by speed skaters this year. The First Ward rink is comparatively much larger and offers a wider skating area besides one that is as long as the Jones park rink.

Dates for the annual Post-Crescent tournament will not conflict with those of the annual Northeastern Wisconsin races at Green Bay. The Green Bay races again sponsored by the Press Gazette will be held on Sunday, Jan. 25, according to reports from that city. Many Appleton and valley skaters usually enter the Green Bay event.

Prizes for the Post-Crescent race will be gold medals for the winners of the various events and cups for the champions in the men's women's and Post-Crescent champ class. An entry blank for this Post-Crescent race appears on this page today and will continue to appear daily. Skaters are requested to get them in as soon as possible.

JOE TURNESA WINS MIAMI OPEN TITLE

Gets $400 and Crown Relinquished by Gene Sarazen

Miami, Fla., (AP)—Joe Turnesa, Elmford, N. Y., professional, has succeeded to the Miami open golf title relinquished voluntarily by Gene Sarazen who had held it four successive years. Turnesa won with 73-74-74-294 in the tournament ended yesterday.

Johnny Johnson, Manassas, N. Y., Henri Cline, Stratford, Conn., and Eddie Williams, Cleveland, tied at 295 to rank next to the winner. Fortune smiled badly on Farrell despite his brilliant play. He counted four birdies in a row during the afternoon round after coming from behind, but two putts missed their mark on other holes and cost him the tournament.

Turnesa, maintaining an even, unworried stride, came up from one stroke behind Williams, the 36 hole leader, to card his 294 just as the sun set behind the Everglades. Farrell, Cline and Williams, playing a tremor on the field, were caught in the darkness.

Sports Question Box

Question—Have reports ever been confirmed that Knute Rockne will retire from coaching at Notre Dame? Answer—No and they probably will not be confirmed.

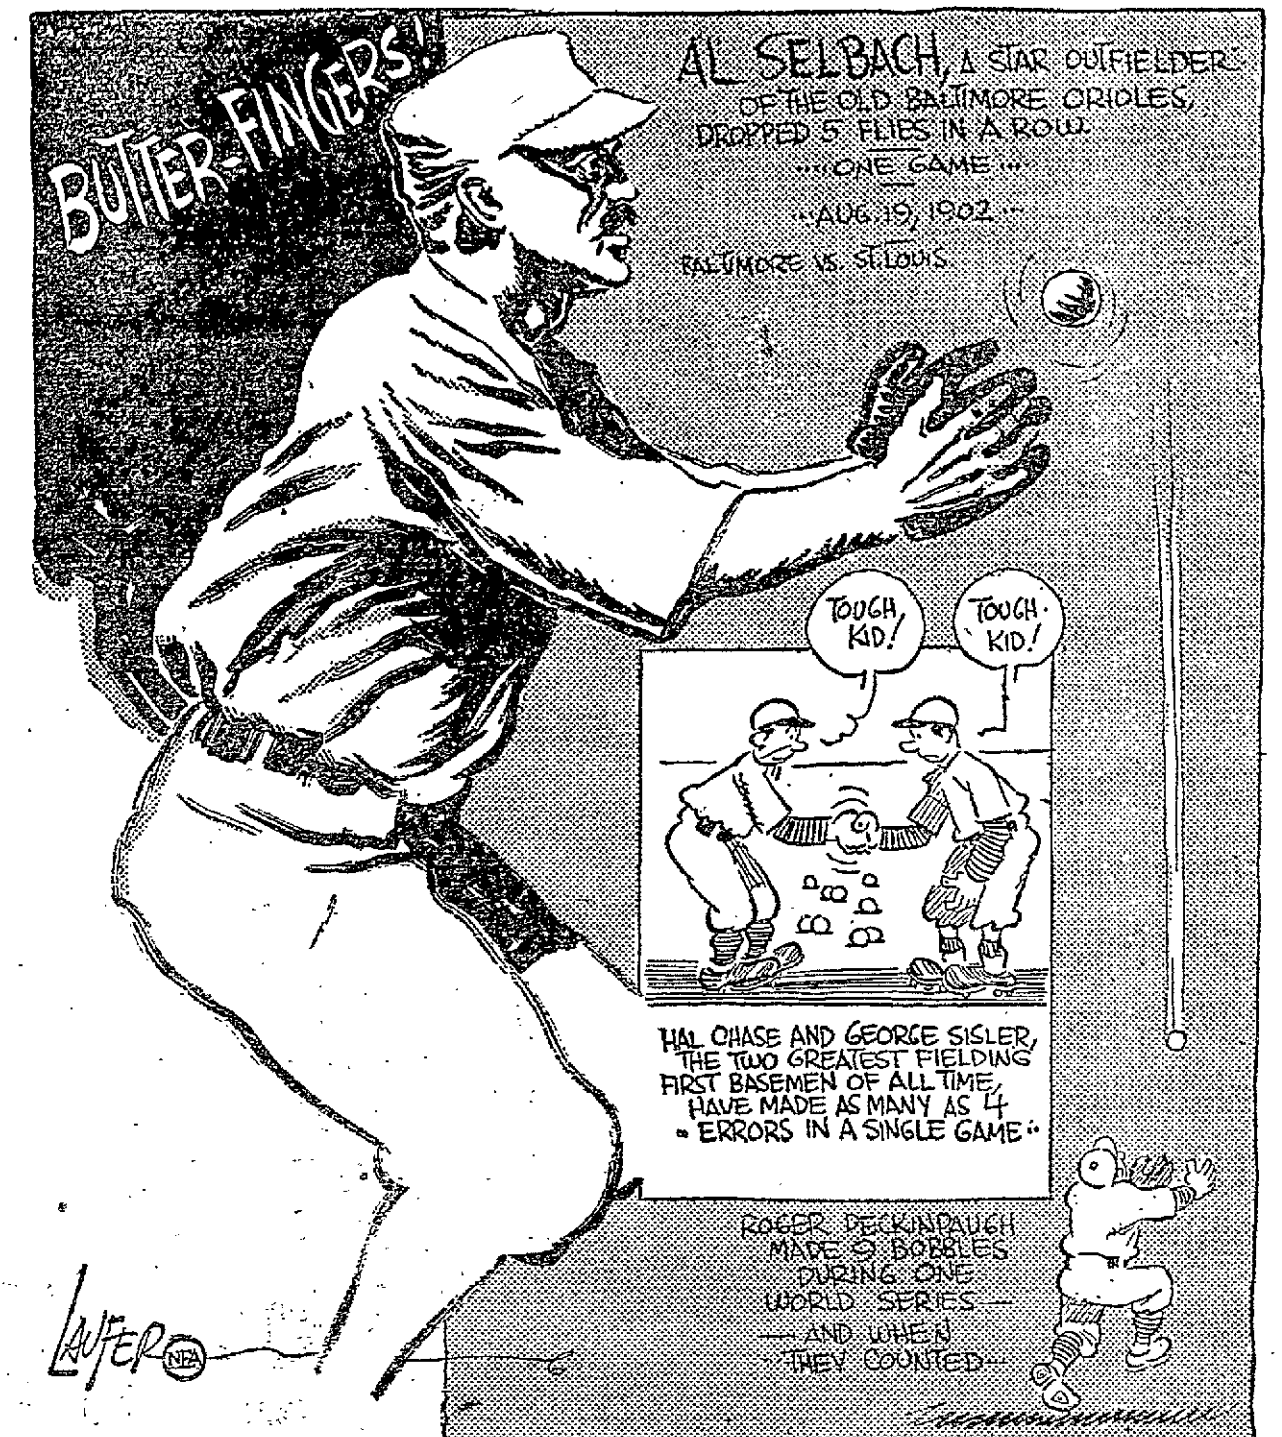

Question—There is no one out, no runner on bases and the ground rule is a home run over the fence. Suppose the batter hit over the fence and misses any base and makes no attempt to go back and touch the base. How can he be put out? Answer—By asking the umpire for a new ball and making the play to the base that he missed. There has been much discussion about this play but as the rule says that all bases must be touched it is only logical to declare that a runner can be put out if he fails to observe the rule and makes no attempt to correct his own blunder.

Question—Which is the better fight city, New York or Chicago? Answer—Chicago. New York runs shows weekly while Chicago runs bi-monthly. The attendance at the latter city, according to the shows presented, shows a better average.

TY COBB DOESN'T WANT A BALL CLUB

Augusta, Ga., (AP)—Ty Cobb believes that being mogul of his home town's sports is enough job for one man. He is not interested in buying any baseball clubs. The "Georgia Peach" took public notice of rumors that he was contemplating entering the owning end of the diamond business, and said that he planned to devote all his time to the position of director of Augusta's sports that was offered him a week ago.

BASEBALL FAVORITE OF EARLY DAYS DIES

Waterbury, Conn., (AP)—Roger Connor, first baseman of the New York Giants baseball club for 13 years and a fence buster long before the day of the "rabbit ball," is dead. Starting his career on the sandlots as a lad of 8, Connor entered the professional game with the Holyoke, Mass., team of the old New England league, switched to the New Bedford club in the same circuit and was sold to Troy in the New York State league in 1876. The Giants purchased him in 1878 and he became the ranking first baseman of his time. He also played with Philadelphia and ended his major league days with St. Louis in the same league.

H. SMITH SECOND AT PRO-AMATEUR MEET

Low Scores Indicate Contestants Are Reaching Mid Season Form

Santa Monica, Cal., (AP)—New to big tournament competition Jimmy Kern, University of Southern California freshman, and Tom Stevens, his instructor, today were joint possessors of Santa Monica's $1,500 amateur-pro golf title.

The 19-year-old student teamed with Stevens, veteran professional from the California Country club, assisted the two-some into a 30-33 1/2 best ball score which led by two strokes a field of more than 300 players in two days of play. As his share of the stake money, Stevens collected $300.

Behind this combination came three other teams, tied for second. They were: George Shaw, Culver City amateur, and Horton Smith, New York, pro, with 32-33-65; Bill Jeffries, Los Angeles amateur titleholder paired with Tony Manero, New York pro who won the Pasadena open recently, with 35-36-65; and George Brongh, amateur, and Vic Owen, pro, from San Pedro, Calif., with 32-33-65.

Universally low cards indicated the leading contenders for Southern California's chief money tournament, the Los Angeles $10,000 open which gets under way Wednesday, and Agua Caliente's $25,000 open which starts next week, are rapidly getting down to their best games.

TWO one sided basketball games featured in the Industrial league of the Y. M. C. A., Saturday evening. The O. R. Kloehe quintet took a trouncing from the Y. M. C. A. Bears and the Citizens National Banks walloped the Schlafers, the scores being 39 and 1-9 and 40 and 21, respectively.

Zimdars, a guard, was the big shot in the Bears' assault on the Kloehe and he garnered six field goals for the evening. Verbrick at center picked up four goals and Grishaber, a forward, got three. Only one foul, a technical, was called on the team. Ray Crane with five markers counted heaviest for the Kloehe.

The Citizen's National Bank team was on rare form in its game with the Schlafers quintet and had no trouble whatever winning. Herb Voeks at forward scored seven field goals to lead the attack and Carl Voeks at guard came through with six which would have totalled enough to win most any game. Montiel of the Schlafers five starred for his team with five goals.

LEN HARVEY SHOWS IN NEW YORK RING

British Middleweight Reported to Have Lost One Fight in 350

New York, (AP)—Len Harvey, Laney British middleweight champion, makes his first American appearance in Madison Square Garden Friday night against Vince Dundee of Baltimore, brother of Joe Dundee, once welterweight champion of the world.

Harvey, they whispered, has been beaten only once in the 350 ring engagements of his ten-year career in the ring. Like most of the British boxers who have come over here in recent years, he is a good boxer with a punch that is labelled no better than fair.

The British champion hopes the battle with Dundee will lead to a series of American appearances by which he hopes to force Mickey Walker, king of the 160-pounders, into a title bout or else an admission that he no longer can make the claim that Walker has been campaigning lately among the heavyweights and seems to be a distinct doubt whether he can make 160 pounds.

Dave Shade, who recently dropped a hair-line decision to Harvey in England, meets an old rival, Joe Anderson of Covington, Ky., in the ten round semi-final. Louis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., former featherweight champion, meets Jack Portney of Baltimore in the opening ten. The Dundee-Harvey bout is at 12 rounds.

Tonight in Philadelphia Benny Bass of Philadelphia defends his junior lightweight championship against Lew Massey, a fellow-townsmen, in a ten round match.

FREDDIE LINDSTROM MAY BECOME FIELDER

New York, (AP)—If John McGraw goes through with his plan to convert Freddie Lindstrom, star third baseman of the New York Giants, into an outfielder next season, two minor league recruits will little it out for the vacant spot in the infield. McGraw hopes that either Jack Vesper from the Oakland club or Pacific coast League or Jack Pickering from Birmingham of the Southern association will plug the hole Lindstrom's shift to the outfield would leave.

Some of the more facetious critics insist that Lindstrom's stay in the outfield will last only as long as the Giants are in spring training, and that he will be in his usual place when the Giants return to the Polo Grounds.

STRENGTH COUNTS IN DRIVING IF BACKED BY GOOD FORM

HERE are more than a few golfers in this land who wonder why and how it is that even when they connect sweetly with a drive it never goes as far as an ordinary shot by a youth of much less physical power. Most of all it puzzles the brawny athletes who still possess brawn and muscle far exceeding that of any first class golfer in the game today. They cannot understand how a little one-hundred-and-twenty-pound kid can stand up all day long and wallop out drives far beyond the very best efforts they could produce in a year.

Physical strength does count for something in golf. It would be foolish to say that it did not, for although we may talk all we please about rhythm, timing and what not, still the fact remains that the man who hits the ball the hardest will achieve the longest drive. Rhythm, timing and the other essentials of form merely determine which player can deliver the hardest blow.

Good Timing Aids

Long driving, up to a certain point, may be explained by good timing. By this I mean that the increased length obtained by the whole

Galloping Ghosts Get Three Free Throws and Lose to Wolverines

TWO desperate shots which went true gave the Delta-Hi-Y team in the Older Boy basketball league of the Y. M. C. A., a 9 and 8 victory over the Bears in a game played Saturday afternoon. The other game of the afternoon was an overwhelming 16 to 3 win for the Wolverines with the Galloping Ghosts the losers.

There were only two minutes left to play in the Delta-Bear game and the score stood 8 and 5 for the Bears when Bill VanRyzin made a long shot and it went through the hoop. Then with 20 seconds of activity remaining, Jorgensen stepped up to the free throw mark and dropped another field goal to give his team a victory.

The Wolverines had nary a bit of trouble with the Galloping Ghosts who failed to get more than three free throws. The Wolves took the lead a minute after play opened when a free throw went true and thereafter they had things all their own way.

YALE CAGERS WHIP PENNSYLVANIA, 26-25

New York, (AP)—A three-game schedule next Saturday night brings out all six members of the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball league. Yale opened the season Saturday night by whipping Pennsylvania, 26-25, in a spectacular overtime game decided by Captain Eddie Horowitz's field goal.

Next Saturday's schedule sends Yale to Ithaca to meet Cornell; Dartmouth to Philadelphia to tackle Penn, and Columbia, league champion, to Princeton.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

OF the southern and western racing plants, Agua Caliente is the most expensively equipped. One-Eye Corral says that the horse owners there for the horses to sleep on. Some of the horses, however, retain their habits of sleeping at the post. At Agua Caliente, anyway, there are Moorish castles all over the place, with thick rugs to walk upon. Thick rugs are nice when one's heels are low. Every day airplane consignments of furs flock arrive for the day's sport, which includes not only horse-racing but the kind of games that got all that Nevada publicity for Clara Bow. And if one is inclined to throw a rock at himself, there is always a place at the club where one can find the tequila, which is the sort of stuff that makes a person too his own trunk.

BADGERS OPEN BIG TEN CARD WITH BUCKEYES

Defeated Carroll, Pennsylvania and Missouri in Preliminaries

BY WILLIAM WEEKES Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, (AP)—Wisconsin and Illinois will open the Western conference's twenty-seventh basketball championship campaign tonight at Champaign. The schedule for the week includes seven games, with probably the most interesting to be staged at Ann Arbor tomorrow night when Purdue, the defending champion, opens against Michigan. Every team will be in action Saturday night, with Illinois meeting Purdue at LaFayette; Chicago and Indiana playing their initial conference contest at Bloomington; Minnesota playing at Iowa; Wisconsin meeting Ohio State at Columbus, and Michigan tackling Northwestern's pre-season favorite at Evanston.

Purdue, which last season crashed through a ten game schedule without a setback—the first time a team had escaped defeat by Big Ten competition since 1919—is rated as a contender, but Northwestern is the choice of the early guessers. The Wildcats veterans won their five pre-season games, beating Notre Dame twice, and Alabama, Bradley and Carleton once each, displaying scoring power in every game except Saturday's engagement with Notre Dame, when they were held to 20 points.

ILLINOIS WIN 5 GAMES

Illinois also took five straight, but against competition not quite as tough as Northwestern's. The Illini defeated a pair of Indiana fixtures—Vash and De Pauw—along with Carleton, Miami and Bradley, Indiana, Michigan and Minnesota each won four straight. The Hoosiers beat De Pauw, Washington University of St. Louis, Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh, while Michigan ran up plenty of points in defeating Western State teachers college, Michigan State, Pennsylvania and Ohio Wesleyan. Minnesota's victims were South Dakota State, Grinnell, Beloit and Carleton.

Wisconsin whipped through Carroll, Pennsylvania, and Missouri, but stumbled over Marquette, losing by 16 to 14. Purdue also was successful in three out of four starts, beating Notre Dame, Washington university of St. Louis and Temple, and bowing to Pittsburgh. Chicago turned in a similar record, taking Cornell college (Iowa), Bradley and Ohio Wesleyan, but dropping a close one to Brigham Young University.

Badgers Contenders

Ohio State played two games, and split even. The Buckeyes lost to Pittsburgh but came back to defeat Cornell. Iowa, back in the league after a lapse of one year, alone lost more games than it won in warmup contests. The Hawkeyes were beaten by close scores by Bradley and St. Louis University, but defeated Creighton.

Northwestern, Purdue, Indiana and Wisconsin have been made the ranking contenders, with Michigan

Chapter 18
A COLD WELCOME

JULIETTE invited Fanny to prolong her visit indefinitely but Fanny declined.

"It's been one of the high spots in my life, Juliette, and I have to go back while it's all still a game—or rather an utterly delicious comedy in which I've had a star part. If I stayed too long I might forget that it wasn't real and that I didn't belong."

Fanny honestly did not wish to stay on. She had played-act long enough; it was time for the curtain to be rung down. Moreover, even at first she had been a little restless without Sheila, and as the weeks passed the restlessness turned into an active hunger for the feel of that soft eager little body.

Her conscience troubled her that she had not missed David more, was able to have such a good time without him, but even so she went home to him happily, as anxious to tell him all about it as a child who had been to the circus for the first time.

It was a little disconcerting to find that no one at home was interested in hearing of her visit. David took a half-hour from his work to meet her, kissed her, asked her if she had had a good time, and without waiting for her reply announced that his uncle at last had promoted him to cashier.

"Darling, how glorious! You clever person I'm so proud of you."

"Cleverness didn't come into it—it was a clear test of endurance. Believe me, I sweat blood for it. I never saw Uncle Judd so unreasonable." He plunged into a recital of his uncle's obstinacies and inconsistencies, and his own humiliations and dogged determination to stick it out. (The inference was plain that Fanny had involved and luxuriated while David fought with his back to the wall.)

"You should have written me to come home," said Fanny weakly. "You were having such a good time, I hadn't the heart."

Mrs. Frost greeted Fanny with a frigid kiss on the cheek and made no inquiries about her visit. Plainly, Fanny had not been forgiven her open defiance in going to Washington. However, the intensity of Sheila's joy more than compensated for Fanny's side, watching her anxiously. Once when Fanny, thinking she heard David's step on the porch, started toward the front door, she felt a tug at her skirt and looked into a small upturned face piteous with fear.

"Why, darling, what is the matter?" cried Fanny, snatching her up in her arms. "Precious darling! Tell Mother." Sheila, covering against Fanny's shoulder, her little body racked with silent sobs, had no words to voice her small terrors and mistrusts. Leona, the cook, was her interpreter.

"Sheila got hold of the idea, somehow, Miss Fanny, that you had went away to starve. She didn't want to do nothing at first but sit on the stairs watching the front door."

"Oh," cried Fanny in a stricken voice. "oh, my baby, my poor neglected baby." Murmuring endearments and self-reproaches she carried Sheila upstairs and was still there, rocking Sheila back and forth, when David got home from the bank.

David was just incensed not to find his wife waiting to greet him, so he washed in the lavatory under the stairs, and when Fanny finally came down in belated answer to the dinner gong his kiss was as cold as his mother's.

Fanny had been especially anxious that David should learn of her social triumphs. He was always so fearful lest she fail to do or say the right thing. Would he not value her more highly, trust her more entirely, if he knew that, put to the test in a commonplace social situation, she had been the most popular visitor in years? Everyone had said so.

Leila Daniels gave a small family dinner, and Fanny, to her about Fanny's visit. But before the soup was finished Fanny realized that Leila was trying to end her about Juliette's relations with men.

"I think Juliette is one of the finest characters I know—a perfect saint," exaggerated Fanny hotly. "Can you imagine any of us doing what she did—giving her beautiful palace for a hospital, doing the most menial sort of work, driving an ambulance for months at a time, sometimes under fire?"

"Europe was full of American women who did the same, even before their own country went into war," said Mrs. Frost, with that note of finality in her voice that Fanny found so trying—it seemed to announce conclusively that the last word had been said on the subject.

"Juliette always had men around her, hadn't she?" Leila persisted.

"Yes, of course," Fanny answered impatiently, "but so do all the other women in Washington with big houses who entertain lavishly. She was better behaved than I."

"Perhaps you were not so well behaved?" suggested Uncle Judd jocularly.

"Perhaps not," smiled Fanny. "David changed the subject, but when they were alone that night he asked her abruptly if men had made love to her at Washington."

"One or two tried to," said Fanny lightly. "But they didn't mean anything. It was just their way of making conversation."

"Did any man kiss you?"

"Not exactly—except one."

"Who?"

Fanny had meant to tell David about Frederick, at the right time and mood, but now he dragged the story out of her question by question.

"Really, David, I didn't do anything I was the least ashamed of," she concluded indignantly. "There's no reason for your assuming the airs of an inquisitor who has already prejudged his victim."

"I haven't prejudged you. But men aren't given to making love to married women, practically proposing—not that he ever meant to marry you—without some encouragement."

"That's unfair," cried Fanny. "Frederick is a spoiled self-indulgent young hedonist who has scarcely had a desire unfulfilled in his life. If you could have seen the way the women ran after him in Washington! He only fancied me in the first place because I avoided him. I can't understand it. It isn't like you, to assume that I encouraged him."

"David walked to the window, stood there a long minute with his back to her before he said in a strangled voice, 'I'm sorry.' He turned to her a face so ashamed and contrite that Fanny rushed to forgive and comfort him."

Fanny realized of course that he had been jealous, but he dropped the subject so abruptly, appeared so indifferent thereafter when she mentioned Washington, that she never again gave him a jealous look. He was in a way, she thought, that she had never before seen in him one long heartache.

David could not be happy without Fanny; she could be happy ecstatically happy, without him. She had come home to him without his asking; but had she wanted to come home?

Her brief, hurried letters had assured David that she missed him, but she had not missed him. His mother had protested vehemently against this Washington visit and she was right; he never defied his mother but what he paid for it.

Men had always been eager to snatch at Fanny, like hungry dogs at a bone, but never until she went to Washington had she been conscious of other men. In Washington there were predatory rich men, men with leisure and wit and charm. And Fanny was too enraptured in her own hurrahs and disappointments to be preoccupied with David's.

She had meant to lay at his feet as a tribute Juliette's remark that she had looked away a crown as if it had been a horse collar. And instead there was that sneering taunt—"Not that he ever meant to marry you."

FEDERAL BANKS SEE BRIGHTER FARM OUTLOOK

together from choice but partly from necessity. There is apparent general improvement and morale not only among farmers but also among the public at large. Ranking second only in importance in this improved morale is the willingness of those in position to do so to lend aid to those less fortunate. The outlook for 1931 while not bright is being viewed by our people in an optimistic way.

President A. G. Brown of the Federal Land bank of Louisville, which embraces the states of Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio, says that the great majority of borrowers are paying promptly and that during the past years the bank has been able to grant all applications for sound loans which come within the provisions of the Federal Farm Loan act.

Loan Demands Grow
"The demand for loans, however, has increased during the year somewhat," says Mr. Brown. "This is attributable to the fact that the value of the land, the principal asset of the bank and associations under the law to make large enough loans to take many of the short term loans on farms because they are larger than the law will permit under current appraised values, and a genuine diminution of demand for first mortgage farm credit."

The volume of new loans has also fallen off in the district presided over by President Wood Netherland of the Federal Land bank of St. Louis. He says that a substantial number of farm sales have been made throughout the district and that much interest in farm lands will be manifested during the ensuing year, particularly if unemployment in the cities should continue. "For many people are learning that the buy one place where a family may live a home and a job at the same time."

From the northwest also comes reports of increasing sales of farm lands, with the number being 50 per cent higher than in 1929 and 59 per cent higher than in 1928. President Klavon of the Federal Land bank of St. Paul, Minn., remarks that the past ten years have brought forth a decided increase in diversified farming, "thus giving our farmers added means for combating unfavorable conditions."

Collections Satisfactory
Collections are not as good as last year but they are "satisfactory considering general conditions," according to President Hogan of the Federal Land bank of Omaha, while President Fields of the Federal Land bank of Wichita reports "an increasing demand for farm land and states that 'borrowers' have made earnest efforts to discharge their obligations to the bank notwithstanding drought conditions and low prices for farm products."

Farms and ranches in the district embraced by the Federal Land bank of Houston, Texas, are now generally in "satisfactory condition due to good season throughout the district. This is the word from President Gossett, who adds that the outlook justifies the belief that both the Federal Land and intermediate credit banks "will render a large and useful service in 1931."

From the Federal Land bank of Berkeley, Calif., President Ellis telegraphs that while 1930 conditions made it difficult for farmers because of the series of dry years and the increased irrigation costs, the morale of the farmers is good. The low commodity price level, rather than short crops has been the principal factor affecting agri-

Kidnaper Sought

A widespread search is being conducted for Charles Abernathy, 23, above, St. Louis Negro who is accused as the kidnaper of Adolphus Busch Orthwein, 14-year-old grandson and heir of August A. Busch, St. Louis millionaire. The Busch family has expressed a desire to drop the case, but police say if Abernathy is captured he will be prosecuted.

culture adversely in the states of Washington, Montana, Oregon and Idaho comprising the Twelfth Federal Land bank district. President Ehrhardt of the Federal Land bank of Spokane says that the outlook for agriculture is not bright but that the picture would be "entirely drab" were it not for the fact that with industry less active and the labor situation unsatisfactory, the city has lost its lure of a steady job and good wages.

"This is retarding farm abandonment," he says, "and many big families are now turning to the farm, with the thought of making money as much as for the purpose of existence."

Generally speaking most of the land bank presidents believe that the pressure for employment will result in a better balanced situation as between the cities and the country districts.

COUNTIES NOT LIABLE FOR SPECIAL PATROLMEN

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin counties are not liable for damage resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle by a special county highway patrolman, according to an opinion given to James R. Durfee, Antigo, district attorney, by the attorney general.

The county is not responsible for an act or any unlawful or tortious act of such an officer, the attorney general added.

SOCIAL GROUP TO WORK FOR CRIME DETECTION BUREAU

Duties Would Be Confined to Solution of Felonies
Only

Madison—(P)—A state crime detection bureau, confined to solution of felonies only, will be among the measures supported by the Wisconsin conference of social work before the 1931 legislature, Aubrey Williams, executive secretary, said today.

The conference also will favor passage of a sterilization law such as provided in the Bill of Sen. Glenn Roberts, Madison, as well as revisions to the children's code, public relief, and probation statutes.

The crime bureau bill, now being drawn under a committee headed by Judge Alexander Reid, of Wausau, Francis E. McGovern, Joseph Padway, and Leverett Wheeler, all of Milwaukee, would establish the bureau under direction of the state board of control.

The idea comes from studies made by the detection and apprehension group of the state committee on crime and criminal justice. The subcommittee was headed by Judge Reid.

Mr. Williams said the bureau, which would not deal with social or economic problems, but simply with felonies, would have four divisions. The detection department for apprehending criminals, the scientific department as proposed by Prof. J. H. Mathews, of the University of Wisconsin, the statistical division for keeping records, and a bureau for broadcasting information.

He said Frank Baker, chief of police at Racine, also has sided with the committee in determining how the proposed bureau should function. Williams did not say who would introduce the measure in the legislature.

The conference of social work also will seek a revision of the probation laws, he said.

"We hope for a more liberal probation law in order that more persons can be placed on probation and kept out of prison," Mr. Williams said. He explained that under the present law persons guilty of a felony cannot be placed on probation. He pointed out that desertion is a felony and that state's prisons are being filled by persons, who have committed a crime no greater than "leaving their family when they are jobless and unable longer to see it in want."

Early Trout Fishing Is Good In Popple River

BY B. A. CLAFLIN

As stated in a recent article I propose with this number to begin a series of informative sketches of the best waters in Wisconsin for the various kinds of game fish. I shall base such information solely on what I have learned from personal visits. In addition, for those who need advice on the proper methods to employ, the right kind of tackle to use and the best time to go fishing, I shall point out some matters that I have found to be effective over a long period of years in the north country.

Trout fishing will be the first subject taken up, for the open season for that species comes first. I receive many letters even now during the winter months asking for advice on where to go trout fishing this coming season. For that reason I am sure there are just as many devotees of this fine sport as there every were, despite the fact that our trout of late have been fast going the way of the buffalo and the wild pigeon.

I believe, however, that if the conservation commission continues to follow their new policy of rearing trout to legal size, or nearly so, before liberating them, we are bound to see much improvement in the supply from now on.

May 1 will be the opening of the season. One of the best streams I know of for early fishing is the Popple river. It can be reached at different points, but one of the best routes to it is via Pence. From there you proceed another five miles north over a side road.

The upper waters of the Pine are also good—above the McDonald camps, which are on highway 55. On both of the streams mentioned Speckled trout, only, will be taken. A leader of at least three and a half feet should be used. Seven and a half is much better.

At the opening of the season anglers worms used with a bright spinner make an excellent bait. If the weather is warm, however, and the water down to normal, there is no reason why the angler should not use flies, if he knows the proper ones. I invariably use Jack's Squirrel tails for early fishing, even though conditions are not good for anything but worms. Write me and I will give you further dope on these excellent lures.

The Rat river is also a very good stream for early fishing. I had the pleasure of whipping this fine stream for a number of years before any of those who visit it now ever knew of the waters and its possibilities. I consider the best part of it to be down from Blackwell to within a few miles of its mouth. The trout were all fontinalis, or Speckled, and good ones are taken if the stream is fished early. I have always caught good fish on chub tails, minnows and a certain spinner combination, which I shall be glad to pass along to anyone writing me.

My next article will point out some more good trout waters in different parts of the state. You will be glad to know of them.

UNION TELEGRAPH EARNING RECORD IS LONG, STEADY

No Suggestion of Change in Dividend Rate Made This Year

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
(Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press)

(Editor's Note: This is the nineteenth of a series on the subject of public utilities, covering the principal operating and holding companies, giving their history, field of operations and an analysis of the capital structure. Mr. Hughes will discuss bonds as well as stocks but will present the facts without any attempt to recommend purchase or sale of specific securities.)

New York—Cash dividends at one rate or another have been paid on the capital stock of the Western Union Telegraph Company for seventy-three years with the exception of only three years. In its earlier history there were stock dividends in addition to the cash disbursements but there has been none of these during the past twenty years. It is this record of earning power which gives to the securities of the company the investment rating they enjoy today.

The effect of business depressions of the past on the dividend rates is interesting in view of the present trade situation. The three years in which no dividends were paid were 1871, 1872 and 1873, in the latter of which years was the famous gold panic which resulted in closing the New York Stock Exchange for ten days the only time in its history during the four months after the declaration of the World War in 1914. Following the crisis of 1907 Western Union reduced its cash dividend rate to 1 per cent but paid 2 1/2 per cent in scrip. There was no reduction in 1920 or 1921. The present $8 rate has been in effect since 1926 and prior to that $7 had been paid since 1919.

At the present writing it looks doubtful whether the dividend will be earned with much margin to spare in 1930 but there has been no suggestion of any change in the rate. With regard to the future the investor has to take into account the competition of other forms of communication which while they may not seriously reduce Western Union's may check its expansion. So far, however, the company has met the test well. It has also an important auxiliary source of earnings in its Stock Exchange ticker service and there are possibilities in the plan to make gasoline filling stations agencies of the company for taking of telegrams. All the bonds of the company sell on a low yield basis. There is only one class of stock which has an active market but fluctuates more or less with other utility issues.

110,000 SPECIMENS TO STATE LABORATORY

Madison—(P)—More than 110,000 specimens were sent to the state laboratory of hygiene and its branches for analysis during the fiscal year 1928-29. Dr. W. D. Stovall, director, said in his biennial report here today.

The main laboratory is at the University of Wisconsin. Branches are located at Beloit, Green Bay, Rhinelander, Kenosha, Oshkosh, Superior and Wausau. There were 1,994 specimens brought to the laboratories for tularemia analysis but only 13 showed positive reactions.

Diphtheria, gonorrhea, tuberculosis and water impurities were suspected in the major number of specimens sent in for analysis, Dr. Stovall said.

Aberdeen, Md.—Army officers have found they can shoot machine guns twice as long by cooling them with a chemical that keeps automobile radiators from freezing, instead of water.

MULFORD FIVE WINS 2 GAMES OVER WEEKEND

Defeats Vagabonds, 29 to 12, and Co. D Team by 26 to 16

Kaukauna—Mulford Twenty-five club cagers won two games from Appleton teams Friday and Saturday evenings. On Friday evening the local five took an easy win from the Appleton Vagabonds, 29 to 12, and on Saturday they defeated Company D of Appleton, 26 to 16.

In Friday's game the Egan cagers had an easy time and held the lead by a good margin throughout the game. The Company D five proved stiff opposition and had the score tied until the last of the third quarter. The local team went into a safe lead in the final period.

ALFALFA SEED IS MOVING SLOWLY

Growers Sell Less Freely and Dealers Less Active As Buyers

Movement of alfalfa seed was slow during the first four weeks ended December 9, says the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture. Growers sold less freely and dealers were less active as buyers. The bureau estimates that about 75 per cent of the crop has been sold by growers up to that date compared with 65 per cent to 70 per cent a month ago. Thus far movement has been slightly faster than a year ago, when it was slower than in other recent years. Up to corresponding dates 70 per cent had been sold in 1928 and 75 per cent in 1927.

Country shippers' figures indicate the following percentage of the crop as having left the hands of growers in some of the important districts: Eastern New Mexico, Montana and Mexico, Montana and western Oklahoma, 90 per cent to 95 per cent; western South Dakota, Utah and western Texas, 35 per cent; southern Idaho and California, 75 per cent to 80 per cent; western Kansas, 70 per cent; Nebraska and Colorado, 60 per cent and Nebraska, 55 per cent.

Prices to growers advanced in a few districts but declined in others and on December averaged $15.10 per hundred pounds, basis clean seed, compared with $15.55 a month ago and $16.90 a year ago and $19.65 two years ago. Average prices for the principal producing districts were as follows: California, $18; southern Idaho, $15.90; eastern New Mexico, $15.50; Nebraska and Arizona, $15.40; Montana, $15.20; Colorado, $15.10; western South Dakota, $14.50; western Oklahoma, $14.05; western Texas $14 and Kansas, $12.00. Prices for Grimm alfalfa ranged $13 to $25, but the bulk of the offers fell between $20 and $25.

Imports of alfalfa seed for the period July 1 to December 15 amounted to 66,500 pounds. In addition 92,000 pounds were held for staining. During the corresponding period last year, imports amounted to 162,900 pounds, which did not include 40,000 pounds held for staining. Two years ago they amounted to 266,300 pounds.

THREE ACTIVITIES NEEDED FOR CHEAP DAIRY PRODUCTION

Testing, Use of Good Sires, Raising of Alfalfa Recommended

BY W. F. WINSEY
According to progressive, prosperous farmers, three farm activities in addition to the usual ones promote economical dairy production. The first is testing cows for milk and butterfat production. The second is the use of herd sires whose dams have made satisfactory production records. The third is the raising of alfalfa for hay and sweet clover for pasture.

It is possible for each farmer who belongs to a cow testing association to cull several cows from his herd and make more money with those that prove their value than is possible with the entire herd. Although he may weigh the milk no farmer can pick out his best cow or grade his cows according to butterfat production without the aid of a cow tester and the equipment the cow tester uses. This inability of farmers and cattle experts has been repeatedly proven at judging contests at county fairs where nine out of ten judges graded 200 pound cows above 300 or 400 pound cows. The Babcock test used by cow testers is the only reliable judge of the value of a dairy cow. Other judges appear wise, make an intensive study of cows, guess, and fail as often as they succeed. As a basis for culling boarder cows the cheese factory and condensation test is worthless as it is a composite test and has only a remote relation to the individual cow of a herd. The cow tester is the only reliable judge of the production of dairy cows and of the cows to serve as the foundation of the improved herd of the future.

At the present time a number of farmers who found through testing that they have 300 and 400 pound cows in their herds are using herd sires whose dams have only 200 pound records or less. Such sires invariably reduce the production of their daughters to points below those reached by the dams. With such sires at the head of his herd, no farmer can advance along the line of economical dairy production. As soon as a demand for sires from dams of satisfactory production records becomes persistent, the breeders of pure bred cattle will begin testing their cows and will be eager to furnish the class of sires that can raise the present standards of dairymen, and for that reason are wanted.

No farmer can advance far along the line of economical milk production as long as he persists in feeding timothy hay, June grass, or marsh hay and pasturing his cows on those kinds of feeds. Cow testers are continually advising the farmers whom they serve to change from timothy to alfalfa and sweet clover and if they fail to get a stand of alfalfa to turn to soybeans in the spring which are a sure crop and the equal of alfalfa for hay.

As the prices of milk are not paying more than the cost of production there is greater need than ever for economical milk production. Cow testing, culling, the use of better sires and the raising of legumes in the place of timothy and June grass will if adopted reduce the cost of producing milk on the farm one-half.

BLACK CREEK CO-OP EXPANDS RAPIDLY

More Than 100 Members Expected in Organization in Few Weeks

BY W. F. WINSEY
Black Creek—One of the most promising cooperative dairy manufacturing and marketing institutions in Outagamie-co is the Black Creek Cooperative Dairy Company lately organized and incorporated to displace the Black Creek Cooperative Creamery Company.

The new company, backed by the National Cheese Producers' Federation, the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Markets, and the federal farm board, has 52 farmers already signed up on five year contracts and will soon have 100 or more. The present low producers' price of milk and the war prices that consumers are paying for bottled milk, canned milk and cheese is a strong inducement for farmers everywhere to take a hand in price-fixing on dairy products, according to the charter members of the Black Creek Cooperative Dairy Company.

The plant soon to be taken over by the new cooperative is in operation but it will be soon doing business under the new management. The committee in charge of the membership drive is announcing that any farmers who have money coming to them from the old organization would do well to sign the new membership contracts before Feb. 1. If they fail to sign up before that date they will be left outside of charted membership advantages.

It is expected that the new cooperative will get financial assistance from the federal farm board through the National Cheese Producers' Federation.

In the near future a permanent board of directors of the new institution will be elected and a constitution and bylaws will be adopted. The membership drive committee consists of O. E. Rohm, George Uhlenbruck and Richard Wickesberg.

Wisconsin also is represented with two of the four herds exceeding the 600-pound fat mark and 9 herds have averaged better than 400 pounds of fat each. The highest average was attained by the Kansas herd of H. A. Dressler of Lebo with 12.3 cows averaging 658.0 pounds of butterfat but Wisconsin herds rank second and third.

Three herds in the nation averaged more than 100 milking cows each of which the largest is owned by Forsgate Farms of Jamesburg, N. J., with 129.8 head. The highest average production for a large herd, however, was made by Wintertur Farms of Wintertur, Del., with 115.1 head averaging 472.7 pounds of fat.
